47 schools to participate in test of certification program

Forty-seven NCAA Division I member institutions, including at least one from each of 28 conferences, have been selected to participate in the Association's two-year test of a plan to certify athletics programs.

Of that number, at least 33 institutions in the certification pilot program will undertake comprehensive self-examinations of their athletics programs with assistance from NCAA and conference representatives, while the remaining institutions stand by as "second-round" participants, time permitting.

The pilot program, which is scheduled to end in mid-1992, could result in the creation of a mandatory Division I certification program, in which the NCAA would approve or deny certification for each athletics program. When testing is completed, the NCAA compliance services department will present information it has collected from the pilot program and seek a decision on the future of certification.

"We're looking at the entire certification program," said Brenda R. Weare, an NCAA compliance services representative assigned to the development of the pilot program. "Each participating school will be asked to evaluate every aspect of the program. Is the time frame sufficient? Is the process appropriate? How much expense and effort was required of the school? We're trying to get information in all of these areas."

Five of the 33 institutions participating in the first round of reviews already are playing an important role in getting the program off to a good start, Weare said. Those schools are reviewing lists of questions that each institution will be asked to answer during the self-study phase of the certification process.

"They actually are helping us write and refine the certification self-study questions," Weare said of the institutions, which are the University of California, Los Angeles; Furman University; Central Connecticut State University; Wake Forest University, and the University of Pennsylvania.

"We'll visit these schools, sit down with them and discuss the appropriateness of the questions," she said.

Once polished, the questions are expected to address such areas as the institution's purpose and mission, governance and administration, academic issues, financial issues, the conduct of student-athletes and coaches, and commitment to rules compliance.

Institutions were selected to participate in the pilot program based on the following requirements:

- They are active Division I members.
- They are not under NCAA investigation, sanctions or probation.
- Their athletics programs have adopted and made public a statement of mission and purpose.

In the pilot program, each institution will evaluate its performance in each of the program's subject areas and in comparison to the standards and purposes of the entire institution, as well as the athletics department's own standards

- The programs have departmental policies and procedures manuals.
- The institutions have formed athletics advisory boards or formal institutional bodies (as described in NCAA Constitution 6.1) that review athletics policies and protect institutional integrity.

Also considered, with the intent of involving a broad cross-section of Division I institutions in the pilot program, were such factors as geographical location, setting (urban or rural), institutional structure (public

Sponsors said to want quick approval of right-to-know act

Sponsors of H.R. 1454, now known as the "Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act," are reported to be planning to bring the bill before the full House of Representatives soon. Indications are that an attempt will be made to pass the bill on the House June 5 "suspension" calendar—under which apparently noncontroversial legislation can be passed routinely without amendment by a two-thirds vote.

As now drafted, the bill covers a number of subjects in addition to the reporting of student graduation rates—the purpose of the original proposed legislation drafted by Reps. Tom McMillen, D-Maryland, and Ed Towns, D-New York. H.R. 1454 is now regarded as sweeping "sunshine" legislation mandating disclosure by colleges and universities of their revenues and expenses, athletics-related revenues and expenses, student graduation rates defined in at least two different ways, student-athlete graduation rates, campus security policies and law enforcement, campus crime statistics, and policies related to alcohol and illegal drugs.

As reported previously, the Senate already has passed a graduation-rate disclosure bill as a part of S. 695. That bill contains none of the additional disclosure requirements contained in H.R. 1454, and the two bills must be reconciled before legislation can be finally adopted and sent to President Bush.

Some House staff members have suggested that an effort may be made simply to ask the Senate to adopt the House-passed bill by consent. Under Senate rules, however, one senator can block such a move and force a conference between the two houses.

Below is a summary of the principal provisions of H.R. 1454, as reported by the House Committee on Education and Labor. Greater detail is provided on those portions of the legislation relating to intercollegiate athletics, all of which are contained in Title I.

As noted, the companion Senate bill on graduation rates covers only the reporting of graduation rates by institutions awarding athletically related student aid (described in Title I, Section I, of the summary below). Principal substantive differences between the Senate and House versions on this subject relate to the breaking down of student-athlete graduation-rate data; the Senate version requires data, respectively, for football, basketball and all other sports combined, while the House version requires a breakdown of data for three additional sports.

The following summary is based on the most recent draft of the bill that was available as the News went to press.

Council appoints members of six Convention committees

During its spring meeting, the NCAA Council appointed the 1990-91 Convention committees, which include the Credentials Committee; the Memorial Resolutions Committee; the Voting Committee; the Nominating Committee, and the Men's and Women's Committees on Committees.

Following are reports on each Convention committee, including their 1990-91 rosters as appointed by the Council.

Credentials Committee

The Credentials Committee has the authority to examine the credentials of delegates to the Convention. It can determine the authority of any delegate to vote or represent a member, although that determination is subject to appeal to the Convention.

Members of the committee are Paul H. Brand, University of Alabama, Huntsville, chair; Michael Gilleran, West Coast Conference, and Marion Wilkinson, Immaculata College.

Memorial Resoutions Commmittee

Members of the Memorial Resolutions Committee will compile the names of individuals associated with intercollegiate athletics who pass away during 1990. A report memorializing these individuals will be prepared and given during the 1991 Convention.

Committee members include James Doyle, DePaul University, chair; Laurie Priest, Mount Holyoke College, and Richard A. Johanningmeier, Washburn University.

Voting Committee

The Voting Committee is responsible for counting votes when called on by the chair of any Convention voting session. At least one memebr from each NCAA district is named to the committee, with the chair appointed at large.

Serving on the committee at the 1991 Convention will be Karen J. Tropp, Nichols College, District 1; Daniel P. Starr, Canisius College, District 2; L. Douglas Johnson, University of Miami (Florida), District 3; Steve Becker, University of Wisconsin, Superior, District 4; Lynn Dorn, North Dakota State University, District 5; Gerald L. St. Martin, University of Southwestern Louisiana, District 6; Katherine E. Noble, University of Montana, District 7; Barbara G. Walker, University of Oregon, District 8; Don Bryant, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, at-large; Norman D. Kaye, St. Leo College, at-large; Ron Randleman, Sam Houston State University, at-large; Marnie W. Swift, University of Toledo, at-large, chair, and William Thomas, Tennessee State University.

Nominating Committee

The Nominating Committee is responsible for developing slates of individuals to fill vacancies in NCAA offices and on the Association's Council.

Members of the committee include:

Division I: Kevin M. White, University of Maine, Orono (Region 1); or private) and athletics department structure (separate, incorporated athletics department or a contained university department), as well as conference affiliation and the date the school volunteered to participate.

In the pilot program, each institution will evaluate its performance in each of the program's subject areas and in comparison to the standards and purposes of the entire institution, as well as the athletics department's own standards.

That effort begins in the self-study component of the process. Each institution is required to establish a self-study committee, whose membership will include the chief executive officer or a designee, the faculty athletics representative, the director of athletics or a designee, and a representative of the faculty's governing board. At some institutions, the committee also may include such members as a student representative, student-athlete academic support services administrator or representative of the institution's governing board.

After completing the self-study, each school will summarize the results and submit its report to the compliance services staff. Then, a compliance services staff member and a conference administrator will visit the school, verify the information in the self-study report and make recommendations for changes in those areas where the athletics department falls short of its own or the institution's standards.

Weare said the staff hopes to complete each review in about five to six months.

Participants

The institutions that will participate in the first round of reviews are:

Arizona State University (Pacific-10 Conference); University of Arkansas, Fayetteville (Southwest Athletic Conference); Butler University (Midwestern Collegiate Conference); University of California, Irvine (Big West Conference); UCLA (Pacific-10); Central Connecticut State (East Coast Conference); University of Dayton (independent); East Carolina University (Colonial Athletic Association and Eastern College Athletic Conference); Eastern Illinois University (Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference and Association of Mid-Continent Universities), and Florida International University (independent).

Also, Furman (Southern Conference); University of Hartford (North Atlantic Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference); Marist College (Northeast Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference); University of Miami (Florida) (independent); University of Nebraska, Lincoln (Big Eight Conference); University of Nevada, Reno (Big Sky Conference); University of New Orleans (American South Athletic Conference), and University of North Texas (Southland Conference).

In addition, Ohio University (Mid-American Athletic Conference); Old Dominion University (Sun Belt Conference); Pennsylvania (Ivy Group and Eastern College Athletic Conference); University of Pittsburgh (Big East Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference); Santa Clara University (West Coast Conference); St. Francis College (Pennsylvania) (Northeast Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference); University of Tennessee, Knoxville (Southeastern Conference); U.S. Military Academy (Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference), and University of Utah (Western Athletic Conference).

Also, University of Vermont (North Atlantic Conference and Eastern College Athletic Conference); Wake Forest University (Atlantic Coast Conference); West Virginia University (Atlantic 10 Conference); Wichita State University (Missouri Valley Conference and Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference); University of Wisconsin, Madison (Big Ten Conference), and Xavier University (Ohio) (Midwestern Collegiate Conference).

The other 14 institutions selected for the program are the University of Alabama at Birmingham (Sun Belt); University of Arizona (Pacific-10); University of Colorado (Big Eight); University of Idaho (Big Sky); Indiana University, Bloomington (Big Ten); Kansas State University (Big Eight); University of Maine (North Atlantic and ECAC); University of Mississippi (Southeastern); Northern Arizona University (Big Sky); Texas Tech University (Southwest); Weber State College (Big Sky); Western Carolina University (Southern); Western Michigan University (Mid-American), and Yale University (Ivy and ECAC).

Private donations to colleges rebound

Rebounding from a slump last year, private donations to colleges and universities rose 8.8 percent to a record $8.9 billion in the 1989-90 academic year, a report said.

After a 3.5 percent decline in private giving in 1988-89 that many blamed on the 1987 stock market crash, donations returned to more normal patterns, according to the report issued May 29 by the Council for Aid to Education.

"Despite the continued sluggish pace of the economy and generally poor corporate profits, individual Americans and a variety of American institutions... seem willing to sustain their support of higher education," said council president Arnold Shore.

As it has every year since 1985-86, Stanford University received the most contributions of any institution — $188.6 million.

The council's national figures are estimates based on survey responses from 1,132 colleges and universities, the Associated Press reported.

Among the findings:

- Alumni contributions rose 12.2 percent to $2.29 billion.
- Gifts from non-alumni individuals were up 7.8 percent to $2.08 billion.
- Corporate giving totaled $1.95 billion, up 5.1 percent.
- Foundation support rose 8.4 percent to $1.74 billion.
- Religious organizations donated $237 million, up 20.1 percent.
- Contributions from other sources reached $632 million, up 10 percent.

Twenty colleges and universities attracted approximately 23 percent of all contributions to higher education, according to the survey. Following Stanford, those schools were, in order:

Harvard University, $185.4 million; Cornell University, $157.1 million; Yale University, $122.8 million; University of Pennsylvania, $121.9 million; Columbia University, $110.4 million; University of Southern California, $102.6 million; University of Wisconsin, Madison, $102.2 million; Duke University, $102 million; University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, $100.2 million; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $95.7 million.

Johns Hopkins University, $84.1 million; Princeton University, $80.3 million; University of Washington, $76.4 million; University of Illinois, Champaign, $73.1 million; University of California, Los Angeles, $72.8 million; University of Michigan, $70.7 million; Ohio State University, $68.6 million; Northwestern University, $68.5 million, and University of California, Berkeley, $68.3 million.

Illinois measure gains support

Illinois should pass legislation requiring athletics associations like the NCAA to provide fair and impartial hearings on possible rule violations to ensure due process for state colleges and universities, the Illinois Association of County Officials said May 23.

The association's vice-president, Thomas Setchell, told United Press International that sanctions resulting from NCAA rules violations cost taxpayers millions of dollars because universities need state money to offset lost sports revenue. "There certainly are times when state law does not provide protections to ourselves as taxpayers," Setchell said.

The group's resolution also calls for giving state universities, coaches and athletes the right to have lawyers present, cross-examine witnesses and appeal NCAA sanctions to state courts.

However, the association did not specifically endorse a bill (H4146) approved recently by the Illinois House that would force the NCAA to use courtroom-style rules of evidence when investigating recruiting violations. The bill also would allow schools to pay athletes $250 monthly stipends if similar proposals are adopted in five other Midwestern states.

NCAA officials have responded to the bill by stating that the Association provides "far more than minimal due-process standards" in its enforcement procedures (see the May 23, 1990, issue of The NCAA News).

University of Illinois, Champaign, trustee Ken Boyle, who joined the association for its presentation, said he personally and as a representative of his constituents supports the due-process points in the bill sponsored by Rep. John Cullerton, D-Chicago.

Legislative Assistance

1990 Column No. 22

1990 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 122 (Bylaw 13.11.2.4)—local sports club exception to tryout rule

NCAA Bylaw 13.11.2.4 provides an exception to the tryout rule that allows an institution's coach to be involved as a participant in instructional or coaching activities in the same sport for a local sports club or organization located in the institution's home community. Member institutions should note that with the adoption of 1990 Convention Proposal No. 122, all prospective student-athletes participating on behalf of the local club or organization must be legal residents of the area within a 50-mile radius of the institution. Further, it is not permissible for the institution's coach to assign a prospect who lives outside the 50-mile area to another coach of the club. Please note that in accordance with Bylaw 13.15.1, it would not be permissible for an institution to provide financial assistance, directly or indirectly, to a local sports club that involves prospects even if the member institution's coach is involved with the club. It would be permissible for the local club to utilize a member institution's facilities consistent with the institution's policies for facility use by any outside group. Finally, in only those sports with no out-of-season playing and practice season regulations (i.e., Divisions I and II individual sports), NCAA regulations would permit the involvement of an institution's coach with a club team even if student-athletes from the institution's team in that sport are also participants on the club team.

NCAA Bylaw 16.1.1.3—awards for summer participation

Member institutions should note that awards received by a student-athlete participating in an event while not enrolled as a regular student during the academic year, or received during the summer while not representing his or her institution, shall conform to the regulations of the recognized amateur organization associated with the event. At no time shall the student-athlete be permitted to receive cash for participation in an event. It would be permissible, however, for a student-athlete to receive merchandise items for such participation, provided such items are permissible under the regulations of the recognized amateur organization associated with the event.

Partial qualifier—continued employment subsequent to summer vacation period

Member institutions should note that in accordance with NCAA Bylaw 13.2.3.1, it is permissible for an institution to arrange employment for a prospective student-athlete, provided the employment does not begin prior to the completion of the prospect's senior year in high school. In addition, NCAA recruiting regulations would not preclude contacts between a prospect and an athletics representative of the institution regarding discussions of summer employment arrangements. The NCAA Interpretations Committee has reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 14.3.2.1 and 1990 NCAA Convention Proposal No. 26 (Division I only) in reference to a partial qualifier who received assistance from a representative of the institution's athletics interests in obtaining a summer job prior to initial collegiate enrollment in accordance with Bylaw 13.2.3.1. The committee determined that inasmuch as a partial qualifier in Division I is entitled only to institutional aid based on financial need, the individual would not be permitted to continue working during the academic year in the job that was provided by the athletics representative (at the request of the athletics department staff), inasmuch as such employment would be considered institutional athletically related aid. Thus, the employment must be terminated at the end of the summer vacation period.

This material was provided by the NCAA legislative services department as an aid to member institutions. If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.

information:

1. The number of its students, broken down by race and sex, and the number of its athletes receiving athletically related financial aid, broken down by race and sex, respectively, in basketball, football, baseball, track/cross country, ice hockey, and all other sports combined;

2. The graduation rate for its students, broken down by race and sex, and for its athletes receiving athletically related financial aid, broken down by race and sex in football and basketball. For these purposes, the bill defines "graduation rate" as the percentage of first-time, full-time degree-seeking students who graduate with a bachelor's degree or the equivalent within five years—essentially the same definition used in NCAA legislation, and

3. The average graduation rate for the four most recent graduating classes of its students, broken down by race and sex, and for the four most recent classes of its athletes receiving athletically related financial aid, broken down by race and sex for the six sport categories referred to in paragraph 1.

Although it is not clear from the terms of the bill, it appears that the data to be reported under paragraph 2 is for the single-most-recent graduating class; the apparent reason for limiting the separate categories for student-athletes to basketball and football in reporting annual data is to minimize the possibility of identifying the performance of a particular student.

The bill requires that the foregoing data be made available by the institution to an athlete being recruited by the institution, as well as to his or her parents, guidance counselor and coach. The Secretary of Education also is required to compile and make publicly available the reported data, both by institution and by conference.

Institutions are authorized under the bill to provide additional information if they believe the reported data does not accurately portray graduation rates of their students, and in addition are authorized to present graduation-rate data that is adjusted to account for transfer students.

The Secretary of Education is authorized to waive the reporting requirements for the members of an association or conference that voluntarily publishes "substantially comparable" data; because of differences between the NCAA's recently adopted program and the requirements of the bill (e.g., the NCAA requires reporting only of four-year graduation-rate averages and does not require separate reporting for baseball, track/cross country and ice hockey), it is not known whether the secretary will grant a waiver to NCAA Divisions I and II institutions.

B. Graduation Rates for All Institutions. Effective July 1, 1992, all institutions participating in Federal student financial aid programs must calculate and make available to current and prospective students the annual "completion" or graduation rate of certificate- or degree-seeking students entering the institution. For these purposes, the completion rate is based on whether a student completes a program within 150 percent of the normal time, or enrolls in a program for which the original program provided substantial preparation. This data must be updated at least biennually.

Within six months of enactment of the bill, the Secretary of Education is required to establish standard definitions and methods for measuring graduation or completion rate, broken down by field of study and by academic division, and the rate at which graduates pass state licensed examinations and obtain, in the case of occupationally specific programs, employment in the field for which trained.

C. Athletics-Related Revenues and Expenditures. Effectiwe July 1, 1991, institutions offering athletically related financial aid must report annually to the Secretary of Education (a) total revenues, and revenues by sport, of their "athletics departments and intercollegiate athletics activities"; (b) total expenditures, and direct expenditures by sport, of such departments and activities, and (c) total institutional revenues and expenditures. The secretary is required to compile the reported data and make them publicly available.

Although it is not clear from the language of the bill, it is believed that reporting of revenue and expenditures of intercollegiate athletics (not intramural or recreational) will be required. As reported previously, the NCAA suported an unsuccessful amendment by Rep. William Ford, D-Michigan, that would have limited the reporting categories to football, basketball and all other sports combined, rather than for each sport in the program.

TITLE II
Crime Awareness and Campus Security

Effective July 1, 1991, institutions participating in Federal financial aid programs must certify that they have established a campus security policy and must publish for current and prospective students and employees a report containing the following information:

1. Procedures and facilities for reporting criminal actions and other emergencies, and policies for responding to such reports;

2. Current policies concerning campus security and access to campus facilities and residences;

3. Current policies concerning campus law enforcement, and statistics on reports of various specified criminal acts and arrests for various acts, and

4. Policies concerning possession, use and sale of alcoholic beverages and illegal drugs, related law enforcement activities, and available abuse-education programs.

Each institution must report annually required campus crime statistics to the Secretary of Education, who is to prepare a report for Congress by 1995 and is also to coordinate and survey campus security policies and procedures.

USOC says tests to cost $1 million

The U.S. Olympic Committee's year-round drug-testing program will cost more than $1 million and involve 4,400 athletes in 37 different sports.

The program is part of a joint U.S.-Soviet agreement for year-round testing that replaces a system in which testing was done primarily at specific competitions.

The USOC said May 29 that the testing will be done at 197 sites, including most domestic competitions, in addition to the U.S. Olympic Festival and the Goodwill Games. It said about $842,000 of the $1 million will be designated specifically for testing during competition and at training sites.

However, the USOC said it must still make final plans with the governing bodies of the sports involved.

Anger over Notre Dame-NBC pact unjustified

By John F. Gaski

Recently, a major university with an immaculate record of high ethical and moral standards, especially as applied to the conduct of its athletics program, has been subject to intense, vicious, even rabid criticism. The offense? The University of Notre Dame sold the television rights to its home football schedule over a five-year period to NBC for about $36 million.

In the wake of this occurrence, Howard Cosell accused the university of "reprehensible" behavior. The prominent Chicago sportswriter Bill Gleason described Notre Dame's action as immoral. Penn State football coach Joe Paterno, highly respected by some, is reported to have said, "I thought Notre Dame was an institution for higher learning. Now I realize it is only a bank." The word "greed" has been liberally, and recklessly, applied. A Chicago Sun-Times "journalist" called the Notre Dame administration "greedy, money-grubbing backstabbers."

Before this hysterical reaction takes root and undermines the nation's ability to perceive reality, perhaps some facts should be clarified. (I offer this illumination not as an official spokesman for the University of Notre Dame, which I am not, but as a Notre Dame alumnus and admirer.)

Conveniently ignored in this fervid maelstrom of overreaction is the primary reason for Notre Dame's act of commerce: generation of academic scholarship funds for needy (nonathlete) students. As our football coach Lou Holtz has succinctly observed, "If greed means wanting to provide an education for needy students, then we are guilty."

Yes, there were other legitimate motives, like allowing our national following to see all the home games—at uniform starting times—in the face of limited ticket supply, but Notre Dame's main purpose was characteristically altruistic.

The University of Notre Dame annually dedicates all the surplus generated by its athletics department to the general university fund, which exclusively supports the academic side of the operation. "Greed" is always a questionable term to apply to a nonprofit institution and seems especially misplaced in this case. Whose pockets are being lined by Notre Dame's NBC money other than the students who will receive the scholarships? Among the worthy purposes of college athletics (and there are some), what higher aim can there be than to provide funds to support educational programs?

Actually, one rhetorical question should be sufficient rebuttal to the delirious criticism Notre Dame has received: Since when is university fund-raising unsavory? Universities perform worthwhile, even nobel, functions with the funds they raise (though Notre Dame is exceptional in also channeling all its surplus athletics revenue into academic programs).

If Notre Dame is to be criticized for greed now because of $36 million, why was it not condemned for its recent $350 million capital drive? Why are Harvard and Stanford not accused of greed for their billion-dollar fund drives? Self-evidently, because such criticism would be absurd for the reasons just given. Likewise, the current criticism of Notre Dame; those who offer such criticism are, in reality, attacking the raising of money for charity, since needy students, not the university, are the ultimate recipients.

"... can anyone seriously ask the University of Notre Dame and many deserving students to discard millions of dollars of scholarship funds so 63 other CFA athletics departments can have an extra six percent on top of what they will gain anyway?"

Some argue that raising large-scale funds through the sale of sports entertainment sends the wrong signal and increases the potential incentive for abuse, given the present high-stakes, high-pressure, high-cheating collegiate sports environment. To this rather ethereal charge, the answers are also straightforward but surprisingly obscure to the critics.

First, consider the fact that the ABC contract with the College Football Association, post-Notre Dame/NBC, was reduced by almost the exact reported amount of the Notre Dame deal, from $210 million to $175 million. Therefore, the "filthy lucre" available as inducement in big-time college sports is not increased as a result of Notre Dame's initiative. In fact, since all incremental revenue to Notre Dame beyond what it would have received from the ABC-CFA package will be diverted into the academic realm, the total amount of money involved in commercial college athletics may conceivably be less as a result of Notre Dame's financial windfall.

In other words, the gross amount remains roughly constant and the net yield is less because Notre Dame's increment is moved from the athletics side into academics. One may also recognize a positive moral lesson for the college sports world in all this: The biggest payoff goes to the school that runs the impeccably clean program.

Again concerning financial magnitudes, another point needs to be made. The other CFA member schools are complaining about the losses they will suffer due to Notre Dame's action. How great are those losses? Though the ABC offer was reduced from $210 million to $175 million, Notre Dame would have received a large share of that difference, say $20 million. So the present/former money ratio actually would be about $175/$190 million.

Moreover, CFA members will receive revenue under the NBC arrangement (as visiting teams at Notre Dame), conservatively about $5 million over the contract period. With the true actual-to-former projected revenue ratio now at $180/$190 million, can anyone seriously ask the University of Notre Dame and many deserving students to discard millions of dollars of scholarship funds so 63 other CFA athletics departments can have an extra six percent on top

Black coaches criticize media for ignoring 'good stories'

A black coaches group told a panel of journalists May 25 that the media must take great pains to be fair to black athletes and coaches, because they often cannot rebound from career-damaging news.

In a heated session on "image assassination" at the annual convention of the Black Coaches Association in Atlanta, the panel was told that negative stories about athletics are, as one member of the audience put it, "a black thing"—examined closely and repeated loudly simply because the subject is black.

"We feel as if the media could do a better job to promote those things that are positive," said Tim Waller, an assistant men's basketball coach at Miami University (Ohio).

Marshall University assistant Mike Freeman said he doesn't view the media as enemies, but he wonders why he sees more news articles dealing with black athletes being arrested or accused of drug use than about Blacks graduating from college or starting businesses.

"You find the negatives... and then you report it," he said. "But when something positive comes out, you just let that slide by."

Among the negative stories cited by the coaches was coverage of University of Maryland, College Park, basketball coach Bob Wade, who was forced out of his job in the midst of an NCAA investigation into alleged recruiting violations. Wade is black.

The panel, composed of journalists from The Washington Post, Sports Illustrated, USA Today, The New York Times and The Atlanta Journal-Constitution, urged the coaches actively to call the media into account, according to the Associated Press.

"If you were to register your discontent, I'm sure they would respond to that," said Earnest Reese, a sports writer with the Atlanta newspapers.

Roy Johnson, a writer with Sports Illustrated, said the panel participants knew there was a lot of anger among the approximately 300 coaches attending the convention and were prepared to take the heat.

"We wanted to open a dialogue," Johnson said. "Everybody sort of understands. We wanted to get in a position to talk about how to make changes."

The coaches said they want improved relationships with reporters and complained that their concerns sometimes are scuttled by editors. The journalists acknowledged that it often is difficult to change editorial perceptions.

"People just want to believe certain things," said New York Times columnist William Rhoden. "A lot of white folks want to think that we only react, that we don't think."

Washington Post sports editor George Solomon said sports coverage is not always racially sensitive. He urged the coaches to point their student-athletes toward careers in sports journalism as a means of building that sensitivity.

"Do we always get it right? The answer is no," Soloman said. "There always have been injustices. There always will be injustices. Say if you're not happy; pick up a phone and call a sports editor's boss."

Both sides said they intend to bridge the communications gap between Blacks in sports and the writers who cover them.

"We do have to have that professional relationship," Waller said. "We'll continue to try to do what they suggested."

Education regarded as irrelevant

Thomas Hill, assistant athletics director
University of Oklahoma
USA Today

"If I sound like an alarmist, I mean to, because I am alarmed. The fact is we (Blacks) are doing to ourselves what slavery couldn't do. We are making ourselves ineffective and inconsequential to American society.

"This thing has gotten way out of balance. We have too many young black high school students who simply don't see education as something relevant to their lives."

Opinions

Charles Wilson, assistant athletics director
Michigan State University Athletic Administration

"Athletes need the opportunity to be participants and to be integrated into the mainstream of campus life. As a former football player, I appreciated the opportunity to choose where and with whom I lived. It gave me an opportunity to room with a nonathlete and interact with nonathletes on a regular basis.

"Many athletes feel social isolation, and the creating of athletics dorms enhances these feelings. Many students and faculty feel that athletes are somehow different, and this differentiation and many other stereotypes are sustained because of continued segregation of our student-athletes."

Larry Hines, general manager
Chicago White Sox
Chicago Tribune

"The big difference between the minor leagues and collegiate baseball is that the emphasis in college is placed on winning or losing for the alma mater. Coaches have one goal in mind: to bring a championship to the university and therefore get compensated in salary and with more security. His decisions are based on 'Who's going to win for me today?' and players are abused.

"That philosophy is not in place in professional baseball. The goal is to develop youngsters, improve their skills, allow them to play when they go 0 for 30. If you happen to win, great.... But I guarantee you, with the philosophy the Sox have, if you'd have to select between the two, development is the way we go."

Terence Moore, columnist
The Atlanta Journal and Constitution

"Black youngsters are harassing, robbing and killing each other over sportswear.

"Who is to blame?

"The attackers, of course, but there are other culprits. We'll start with the combination of poverty that continues to strangle our inner cities and a media that often suggest to black youngsters that their salvation will come through athletics.

"What has helped to create the demand for such items in inner cities is the media's subliminal messages to black youngsters about the wonderful healing power of sports."

Report urges major changes

The United States must radically change how it uses standardized tests, which often are the keys to school or work opportunities, to make them less relied on and more accountable, a report said.

The Ford Foundation-funded National Commission on Testing and Public Policy released the report May 23 after three years of study.

"Current testing, predominantly multiple-choice in format, is overrelied on, lacks adequate public accountability, sometimes leads to unfairness in the allocation of opportunities and too often undermines vital social policies," the report stated.

Commission chair Bernard Gifford called the report "the most comprehensive policy-oriented review of testing ever conducted.

"The chance to attend a college, or to enroll in a training program, or to secure employment should never depend entirely upon a single test-performance measure," Gifford told United Press International.

Mandatory standardized testing consumes some 20 million school days and the equivalent of $700 million to $900 million in expenses annually, the report said.

In the most recent drive toward educational reform, standardized test scores of schools and school districts often were used as the key criteria to measure success.

Challenging the current emphasis on test scores, the report said, "We cannot test our way out of our educational problems. The opposite is true. As teaching turns into test preparation, test results cease to reflect what examinees really know or can do."

Educational Testing Service, one of the developers of standardized tests such as the Scholastic Aptitude Test, said it welcomed the commission's efforts "to make sure that tests are designed, used and interpreted properly."

"Testing should be neither the lead horse nor the scapegoat of American education but rather a reliable means for (evaluating) our nation's educational goals," said Gregory Anrig, ETS president.

Results of three-year test-score study released May 23

FairTest, a testing reform group, said the report's conclusions echoed its own, and the group urged a "moratorium on new multiple-choice tests, a massive reduction of educational testing and the institution of performance-based evaluation."

The commission proposed:

- Reorienting testing practices to promote the development of human talent and redirecting programs away from an overreliance on multiple-choice tests.
- Using test scores only when they differentiate characteristics relevant to the opportunities being offered. When test scores disproportionately deny opportunities to minorities, more proof should be needed to show the tests measure characteristics relevant to those opportunities.
- Using more than test scores to make important decisions about individuals, groups or institutions.
- Subjecting testing to greater public accountability.

of what they will gain anyway? Would that be reasonable, realistic, or even moral?

As one student pointed out in a letter to our campus paper, Notre Dame represents only about 1.6 percent of the CFA and accounted for 17 percent of its TV revenue; therefore, the other CFA schools should be grateful to Notre Dame for subsidizing them so generously for so long. Of course, this is only one reason the CFA's criticism is hypocritical. Any one of them would have done the same thing (for less elevated reasons), but they realize they cannot, and they are envious. Recall as well that the organization was founded largely to maximize television revenue. And perhaps someone can tell us how Notre Dame's move is so different from what the Big Ten and Pac-10 Conferences have been doing all along with their separate TV contracts.

Essentially, the realities recounted above either are known by the issuers of the anti-Notre Dame invective of recent months or are not known. If they are, the criticism is hypocritical; if not, it is ignorant. In either case, it is unjust and bizarre.

The teacher in me apparently has a need to try to correct misinformation or public ignorance when it gets out of hand; yet, I personally derive reassurance and satisfaction from this observed spasm of it. As long as that large and pitiful group of professional Notre Dame haters is whining, sputtering and squealing in rage, I am confident my university is on the right course.

Kansas State starts academic programs

Kansas State University officials have announced the establishment of Second Wind, a program to assist former student-athletes in completing requirements for their undergraduate degrees.

Veryl Switzer, associate athletics director in charge of academic assistance, said his unit currently is working with the Division of Continuing Education in its nontraditional studies program.

Two former Kansas State football players, Isaac Jackson and Tim Stone, completed undergraduate degrees this spring through the program.

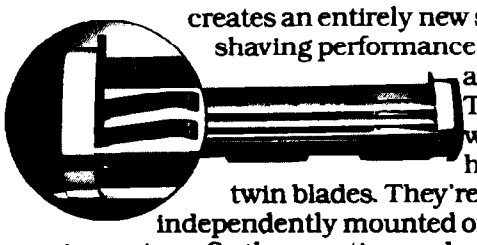
Jackson, who lives in Aurora, Colorado, received his degree 17 years after leaving Kansas State. "I knew getting a degree was something I wanted to do," he said, "but I didn't know how to get back to school until they told me about this program."

Each person in the nontraditional study program receives individual advising, and a program of study is developed to meet the specific needs of each student.

Students can earn credit in many traditional and nontraditional ways, including regular on-campus courses (including evening, summers, intersession and short courses) at Kansas State; community-based outreach courses; Telenet and television courses; independent study, and correspondence courses from other institutions.

"I give credit to (Kansas State athletics director) Steve Miller, who is working very closely with this and insisting that these kinds of things take place," Switzer said. "That's the kind of thrust and support we need to get things done."

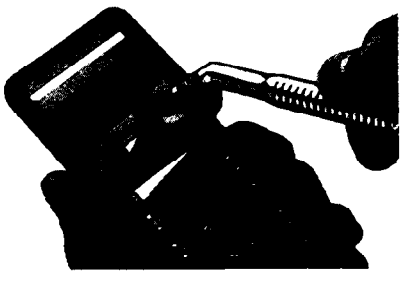
It senses and adjusts to the individual needs of your face for the best shave a man can get.



The remarkable Gillette Sensor shaving system creates an entirely new standard in shaving performance. It's a shave personalized to every man. The revolution starts with the platinum hardened Sensor twin blades. They're individually and independently mounted on highly responsive springs. So they continuously sense and automatically adjust to the individual curves and unique needs of your face.

But innovation doesn't stop there. The ultra narrow metal skin guard is also mounted on springs. It moves in total harmony with the blades to set up your beard for optimum shaving performance.

Keeping this technology in constant contact with your face required another breakthrough. A dramatic redesign of the entire pivoting process creates a wider, more responsive, unprecedentedly smooth pivoting action. Innovation is everywhere.



You can feel it in the textured ridges and balance of the Sensor razor. You appreciate it in the easy loading system and the convenient shaving organizer.

Even rinsing is innovative. The new blades are 50% narrower than any others—water flows freely around and through them, helping to make rinsing and cleaning totally effortless.

But the true revolution of Sensor comes not with any one feature, but with the way the Sensor technologies work together. They combine to give your individual face a personalized shave—the closest, smoothest, safest shave you've ever had. Or, more precisely, the best shave a man can get.

Syracuse caps perfect season with lacrosse championship

Syracuse capped a perfect season May 28 with a 21-9 victory over Loyola (Maryland) in the Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship at Piscataway, New Jersey, and became only the second team in history to win three consecutive championships.

The Orangemen duplicated the feat first accomplished by Johns Hopkins in 1978, 1979 and 1980, but did so with a few new wrinkles. The 12-goal margin of victory is the largest in a championship game, and the 21 goals scored by Syracuse are the most scored in the title contest.

Syracuse also set a championship record with 62 goals in three games. In addition, coach Roy Simmons Jr. became the first coach to guide a team to four Division I championships.

"I don't know if this was my best year, but this is the best team I've ever played on," Syracuse midfielder Gary Gait said.

"I think everyone could see today that this team is a lot more than just Gary and me," Paul Gait, Gary's twin brother, added.

Syracuse's Gary Gait (No. 22), shown here getting away from Loyola (Maryland) midfielder Bob Curry (No. 2) had five goals in the championship game, his last as a collegian

The Gaits, who have dazzled lacrosse fans with their innovative play, finished their collegiate careers in grand style. Gary set a new championship record with 15 goals, including five each in the semifinal and championship games. He broke his own record of 14, set in 1988. Paul tallied three goals and added three assists in the title tilt. Paul scored Syracuse's first goal of the championship game, and Gary tallied twice in less than a minute after Loyola closed to within one during the second period.

"It's really tough," Loyola goalie Charlie Toomey said about facing Syracuse. "They come at you with so much that you get caught up in it and begin to think 'Here they come again, behind the back, through the legs, whatever.'"

"They are a great team that had too many horses for us," Loyola coach Dave Cottle said. "Our kids played their hearts out and lost to a better team."

Syracuse reached the championship game by defeating North Carolina, 21-10. Gary Gait's five goals paced the Orangemen, and Greg Burns and Tom Marechek added four goals apiece. Burns also scored five goals in the title contest.

After the semifinals, North Carolina coach Willie Scroggs announced his resignation as the Tar Heels' coach to devote more time to his duties as assistant athletics director at the school.

Junior attackman Chris Colbeck scored in double overtime to give Loyola a 14-13 victory over Yale in the other semifinal contest. The Greyhounds scored three times in the last two minutes of regulation to force the game into overtime. Both teams reached the semifinals for the first time.

UCLA women win softball crown

Pitching carried UCLA to the Division I Women's Softball Championship. And pitching – specifically, a one-hit performance by Heather Compton – earned the Bruins their third consecutive national title and sixth crown overall.

Compton's one-hitter spurred the Bruins to a 2-0 victory May 28 over Fresno State in the championship game.

The May 23-28 tournament, held at the Amateur Softball Association's Hall of Fame Stadium in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, was plagued by rain. The championship game began on Sunday, May 27, but was postponed in the third inning due to the weather. The game was completed the following day.

The Bruins, who ended the season 62-6, scored one run in the first inning. Shanna Flynn and Kerry Dienelt both singled off Fresno State starter Terry Carpenter. The Bulldogs brought in reliever Carie Dever, who promptly recorded two outs. But Dever then threw a wild pitch, allowing Flynn to score.

UCLA came back the next day to score again in the third. Shelly Montgomery singled for the Bruins off Dever. A sacrifice moved Montgomery to second, and Dienelt followed with an RBI single.

Compton had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning, but the Bulldogs' Kerri Donis broke it up with a leadoff single. Compton, who finished the year with an 18-1 record, struck out five and did not walk a batter for UCLA. The freshman said she channeled her nervousness into excitement.

"There was no hesitation," she said. "You get really nervous. You have to turn that nervousness into excitement, and I tried to go out there and do my best."

Named to the all-tournament team were Dienelt, Flynn, Lisa Fernandez, Yvonne Gutierrez and Lisa Longaker of UCLA; Julie Smith, Martha Noffsinger and Marcie Green of Fresno State; Debbie DeJohn and Leslie Barton of Florida State, and Dawn Lange and Shannon Kimberling of Oklahoma State.

Birdie in sudden death lifts Arizona's Slaughter to title

Arizona's Susan Slaughter birdied the first hole of a sudden-death play-off May 26 to beat Texas' Michiko Hattori and win the individual title at the National Collegiate Women's Golf Championships, which were hosted by South Carolina.

Top-ranked Arizona State won its first team title during the May 23-26 championships, shooting a final-round 304 for a 1,206 four-day total — 16 strokes ahead of UCLA on the 6,141-yard, par-72 Arthur Hills Course on Hilton Head Island. Florida was third at 1,223, followed by defending champion San Jose State at 1,225. Tulsa and Texas tied for fifth at 1,227.

Slaughter, a sophomore who lost to San Jose State's Pat Hurst by two strokes last year, and Hattori, a junior from Nagoya, Japan, ended regulation tied at 9-over-par 297 to force a play-off, which began on the par-4 No. 1 hole.

After a near-perfect tee shot, Slaughter hit an eight-iron 130 yards to within two feet of the pin. Hattori sent her approach shot 15 feet past the green. Hattori chipped to within three feet of the hole, but Slaughter then rolled in her putt for a birdie to win the title.

Hurst finished at 299, good for a fifth-place tie.

Methodist golfers win everything

Methodist, last year's runner-up, won the Division III men's golf team title May 25. With Cal State Stanislaus, which won the past six years, now competing in Division II, Methodist took over the top spot in convincing fashion.

Methodist won the team championship with a four-day total of 1,172 on the par-72, 6,596-yard course. Gustavus Adolphus and Ohio Wesleyan tied for second, 30 strokes back, and Cal State San Bernardino and Wittenberg tied for fourth at 1,216.

In the individual race, a Methodist golfer took medalist honors for the second straight year. Rob Pilewski parred the final hole of Jekyll Island's Indian Mound course May 25 to best Ohio Wesleyan's Barry Pry by one shot for the title. Last year, Methodist's John McCullough took top honors. At the 1990 championships, McCullough finished with a 294 total, tied for sixth.

Pilewski shot a 3-over-par 75 to complete 72 holes at 289. Pry finished with a 74 for 290.

Methodist, which had never won the team title before, had finished second twice. Pilewski's triumph is the second individual title for Methodist.

Mighty Falcons soar to II men's track team championship

Going into the final day's competition, St. Augustine's trailed Cal State Northridge, but took firsts in the high jump, 1,600-meter relay, the 400-meter hurdles and the 400-meter relay to win its second consecutive Division II outdoor track and field championship. St. Augustine's now has won the last four indoor and outdoor titles.

The Mighty Falcons kept their streak alive with 111 points. Cal State Northridge was second with 60 points, host Hampton was third with 56 points and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo finished fourth with 53 points.

As had been the case in previous meets, St. Augustine's garnered most of its points in the jumps and the short sprints. Kenneth Brokenburr took second place in both the 100- and 200-meter dashes, as well as running legs on the winning 400-meter and 1,600-meter relays.

Earlier this year, he won the 55-meter dash at the indoor meet and anchored the winning 1,600-meter relay team. Terrell Carpenter, who also ran a leg on the 400-meter relay, took second in the long jump.

Other winners for the Mighty Falcons were Darrin Moore in the long jump, Charles Johnson in the 110-meter hurdles and Fitzroy Morrison in the 400-meter hurdles.

Moore's and Johnson's marks both set stadium records at Hampton's Armstrong Field.

Mustangs defend Division II women's track crown

After a four-year hiatus from dominance in women's Division II track, the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo Mustangs asserted themselves as the best the division has to offer, winning their second straight and fifth overall track and field championship.

Only Abilene Christian (four titles) and the Mustangs have won Division II championships.

With strong performances in the distance races, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo won May 24-26 at Hampton with 116 points. Norfolk State was second with 72 points, Abilene Christian was third with 62 points and Alabama A&M finished fourth with 56 points.

Teena Colebrook once again starred for Cal Poly, breaking the Division II record in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:02.48. Colebrook bettered a mark she set in 1987. She also broke the championships record of six career national titles that had been held by Abilene Christian's Yolanda Henry.

Colebrook also won the 1,500-meter championship with a time of 4:19.78. In that event, the Mustangs took first, second, third, fifth and eighth places to score 29 points.

Yolande Straughn of Abilene Christian was a double winner in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Lions roar to III men's track crown

Lincoln (Pennsylvania) won just two events, but strength up and down the line helped the Lions capture their second Division III Men's Outdoor Track and Field Championships team title.

Mark Whitsett won the 110-meter high hurdles for coach Cyrus Jones' squad and the 1,600-meter relay team also took top honors. But multiple point-scorers in two events and a second-place finish in the 400-meter relay enabled the Lions to edge Wisconsin-Oshkosh in the closest meet in four years, 49-45. The 49 points was the fourth lowest winning total in meet history.

Seamus McElligott of Haverford was the meet's only double winner, taking first in both the 5,000- and 10,000-meter runs. John Lumkes of Calvin placed first in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and second in the 1,500-meter run.

Nate Kirtman of Pomona-Pitzer pulled off the biggest surprise of the meet by winning the long jump. Defending champion Jan Cado of North Central had won the indoor and outdoor championships in both the long jump and the triple jump last year, and was looking for a repeat performance. But Kirtman's jump exceeded Cado's by a mere quarter inch to dethrone the Czechoslovakian native.

Cado won the triple jump by a comfortable margin over Kirtman.

Titans are tops in III women's track

Nancy Dare and Laura Horejs of Wisconsin-Oshkosh finished one-two in the 1,500-meter run to lead the Titans to the Division III women's track and field team championship May 23-26 at North Central. The 18 points they scored in the race helped the Titans to a 27-point victory, their first.

Wisconsin-Oshkosh also won the 400-meter relay, and Stephanie Bostwick won the shot put for the Titans.

Christopher Newport's Sheila Trice, the two-time defending champion in the 100-meter dash, was successful in her defense of that crown, but coach Vince Brown's strategy of using her in fewer events in hopes that she would be stronger in those events didn't pan out. Trice finished second in the 200-meter dash and third in the long jump. She totaled 24 of Christopher Newport's 37 points. Last year, Trice totaled 25 points on her own and was part of the winning 400-meter relay team.

Kim Oden of Nebraska Wesleyan turned in another outstanding performance at the 1990 championships. Oden defended her 1989 high-jump crown by setting a meet record at 5-10½, bettering the four-year-old mark of Michelle Reidi of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. Oden also won the heptathlon in record fashion, her 5,136 points shattering the mark of 4,955 set in 1983 by Deanne Malvino of Sonoma State.

Leonor Isaac of American (Puerto Rico) was a double-winner, taking the 200- and 400-meter dashes.

Stanford men finish school sweep of I tennis titles

Stanford defeated top-ranked Tennessee, 5-2, May 22 in the team final of the Division I Men's Tennis Championships to give the school a sweep of the men's and women's team titles for the fourth time in five years.

The University of Southern California hosted the men's championships May 18-27 at the Grand Champions Tennis Resort in Indian Wells, California. Stanford's women claimed their fifth straight team title May 13 with a 5-1 victory over Florida in the finals of the women's championships.

The title was the third straight for the Stanford men, their fourth in the last five years and their 11th overall.

The final was a long-awaited showdown between the nation's only undefeated team (Tennessee, 34-0) and a perennial champion (Stanford) that had suffered three losses in an injury-plagued season.

But the Volunteers' grueling, 5-4 victory over UCLA in the semifinals — their first victory over the Bruins in five tries — may have sapped their energy. They ended the singles round against Stanford trailing, 4-2, and on the verge of elimination. Tennessee's hopes of winning a title in its first appearance in the finals ended when Brice Karsh and Fabio Silberberg lost to Stanford's Alex O'Brien and Jason Yee at No. 3 doubles, 6-2, 6-4.

"Playing six and one-half hours and that late comeback yesterday was just too tough," Tennessee coach Mike DePalmer said afterward. "(But) I'm proud of these guys. Life goes on."

"I thought we played a great team," Stanford coach Dick Gould said after handing the Vols their first loss. "Of the championship teams I've had, only one went undefeated. That is a great accomplishment. It's easy to sit back, but they were aggressive. I thank UCLA for keeping them out there a long time (the day before)."

Stanford's closest match in the championships was a 5-3 victory over Southern California in the semifinals. The Cardinal also defeated Oklahoma State and Texas by identical 5-1 scores.

In the individual competition, Texas' Steve Bryan survived a tough three-set match against third-seeded Jose-Luis Noriega of San Diego in the quarterfinals, then cruised past Stanford's Jared Palmer (6-0, 6-1) in the semifinals and unseeded Jason Netter of UCLA (6-3, 6-4) in the finals to claim the singles title. It was Texas' first crown since 1979 and its fourth overall.

Bryan, ranked No. 3 in the nation, finished the season with a 53-6 record. He is the first sophomore to win the singles title since Utah's Greg Holmes in 1983.

The Longhorns were on the verge of becoming the first school since 1974 to sweep the individual championships when Mitch Michulka and Michael Penman advanced to the doubles finals, but top-seeded Doug Eisenman and Matt Lucena of California ended Texas' threat with a 6-3, 6-2 victory.

Eisenman and Lucena became the first duo to win the triple crown of college tennis doubles, having already won this year's Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Championships and the Rolex National Indoor title. It was California's eighth doubles title and the seventh in a row to be claimed by a team from the Golden State.

Stanford's Glenn Solomon won his match at No. 5 singles, giving his team a 4-1 lead over Tennessee in the team final. The Cardinal went on to win, 5-2, and completed a sweep of Division I team titles by Stanford's men and women.

I men's golfers could join game's elite

Check the list of winners of the Division I Men's Golf Championships. It reads like the latest leader board on the Professional Golfers' Association tour.

John Inman, the 1984 champion from North Carolina, set the Division I tournament record with a four-round total of 271. Scott Simpson, a two-time champion from Southern California (1976 and 1977), won the 1987 U.S. Open title after outdueling Tom Watson. Names like Ben Crenshaw, John Mahaffey, Hale Irwin, Curtis Strange and Tom Kite, the all-time leading money winner on the tour, also dot the list.

Not impressive enough? Try adding the 1961 winner—a youngster from Ohio State named Jack Nicklaus.

Rich in tradition, the Division I championships long have been a stepping stone toward greatness on the professional tour. And on the weekend of June 6-9 at the Innisbrook Golf and Tennis Resort in Tarpon Springs, Florida, 156 golfers will try to add their names to the list of champions.

This year's tournament should be wide open. The latest Division I poll has Oklahoma State and Florida separated by just two points, with Arizona State not far behind. Last spring, the Sun Devils' Phil Mickelson became the first freshman since 1982 to win the individual title. He will seek to become the seventh player to win back-to-back championships in the 91-year history of the tournament.

Oklahoma State is used to being in the favorite's position. The Cowboys have finished first or second in 13 of the last 16 years, and this year looks to be no different. Kevin Wentworth, who finished third individually last year, is a two-time Big Eight Conference champion who carries a 72.0-stroke average.

Teaming with Wentworth are two freshmen who look to carry on the tradition for the next few years.

Dudley Hart

Chris DiMarco

Arizona State's chances will hinge on Mickelson. The sophomore lefthander is carrying a 71.32-stroke average after winning three of 12 tournaments this year. He has placed in the top 10 in nine of them, including the Oak Tree Invitational in Edmond, Oklahoma, site of last year's Division I tournament. Mickelson finished tied for fourth for the Sun Devils, who finished second behind UTEP.

But Mickelson is not a one-man team. The other four golfers coach Steve Loy will use at the nationals all carry stroke averages under 74—Jim Lemon (72.60), Per Johansson (72.73), Scott Frisch (73.24) and Keith Sbarbaro (73.41).

Clemson, Texas and Georgia Tech, although possibly a notch below the Cowboys, Gators and Sun Devils, are capable of taking the championship as well.

Championships Preview

Scott De Serrano (72.5-stroke average) and Craig Hainline (72.7) are both capable of winning a tournament.

And while considering that this year's tournament is being hosted by second-ranked Florida, remember that Oklahoma State won a preview tournament last fall by five strokes over the Gators. That tournament, which featured 12 of the preseason top 20 teams, was played at Innisbrook.

Florida has been hurt recently by an injury to Dudley Hart. Hart, who has alternated with Chris DiMarco as the top golfer on the team, suffered a stress fracture in his rib cage about a month ago and returned to action May 21 with a round of 78. DiMarco has a stroke average of 71.5 this year, and Hart's is 71.65. Pat Bates rounds out a tough threesome with a 72.5-stroke average.

If Hart's injury keeps him from being effective, the Gators could be hurting but still would be a contender, said assistant coach Jim Kelson.

"We have two other good players who can help us," he said. "But you hate to lose someone of Dudley's ability."

The Gators will be helped by playing on a familiar course. Besides playing at Innisbrook last fall, the Gators played a couple of rounds there during spring break.

Championships Profile

Field: A total of 324 participants have been selected for regional competition, with 156 individuals advancing to the championships. From the East regional which includes Districts 1, 2, 3 North and 3 South—11 teams and two individuals will advance. The Central regional, which includes Districts 4, 5 and 6, will send 10 teams and two individuals to the championships. Defending champion: The Oklahoma Sooners won their first-ever team championship by a convincing 19 strokes. The Sooners had two previous individual champions, but 1988's second-place tie was the best team finish before last year. Phil Mickelson of Arizona State became the first freshman since 1982 to win the individual title by posting a 1-over-par 281. It was the second individual title for the Sun Devils.

Schedule: Regional qualifying will be held at the Savannah Inn and Country Club in Savannah, Georgia (East); the Ohio State University Scarlet Golf Course in Columbus, Ohio (Central), and The University Golf Course in Las Cruces, New Mexico. USOC renews contract with education center

The U.S. Olympic Committee has announced the renewal of its contract with the nation's only Olympic Education Center, located at Northern Michigan University.

The center has the nation's only Olympic resident-athlete program, where athletes are able to continue their education, both in high school and college, and train for top national and international competitions.

The OEC also has the nation's only Olympic "bridging" program, where retired Olympic and Pan American Games athletes are able to finish their education with the same benefits as resident athletes.

Several sports, including cycling, Nordic skiing, ski jumping and biathlon, already have requested resident-athletes programs at the OEC. There currently are 48 athletes—representing 16 states—in three resident programs: boxing, short-track speed-skating and competitive badminton.

Athletes at the OEC receive free room and board and pay in-state tuition fees at Northern Michigan. They are eligible for additional financial aid through the USOC, the university and their respective sport's national governing body.

ESPN to carry festival sessions

ESPN will televise 30 hours of exclusive coverage from the 1990 U.S. Olympic Festival in Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minnesota, beginning July 7 and continuing daily through July 15. ESPN generally will present two sessions of coverage from the Twin Cities each day—one in the late afternoon and one in prime time.

At least 11 sports will be featured during the network's coverage of the U.S. Olympic Committee's 10th festival: basketball, boxing, diving, gymnastics, figure skating, ice hockey, rhythmic gymnastics, track and field, swimming, synchronized swimming, and water polo.

Gavitt to leave Big East

David R. Gavitt, the founding commissioner of the 11-year-old Big East Conference, has been named head of basketball operations for the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

David R. Gavitt

"I believe we have landed one of the best basketball minds in the business," said Red Auerbach, the Celtics' president, in announcing the appointment May 30. "He will be the senior executive president and chief operating officer. He's the basketball guy that we feel can do an awful lot."

Gavitt's association with basketball stretches from his days as a player at Dartmouth College in the 1950s to stints as head coach at his alma mater and at Providence College, where his 1972-73 team appeared in the Final Four.

He also has been deeply involved in international basketball, notably as head coach of the 1980 U.S. Olympic men's basketball team and as a leader of USA Basketball.

Gavitt, who also served as director of athletics at Providence before the Big East was formed, has served on several NCAA committees. He currently chairs the Basketball Officiating Committee and is a member of the Men's Lacrosse Committee, the Special Committee to Review the Membership Structure and the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues.

He also chaired the Division I Men's Basketball Committee from 1981 to 1984.

Atlantic 10 committee directed to explore expansion

The Atlantic 10 Conference has asked its membership committee to develop an expansion plan for the 1991-92 academic year, Commissioner Ron Bertovich announced at the conclusion of the conference's annual spring meeting in North Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

"The Atlantic 10 athletics directors unanimously agree that membership is a critical issue and that a study of expansion is certainly necessary and warranted at this time," Bertovich said. "The Atlantic 10 has established long-range goals and objectives as a group, and expansion could play a key role in attaining these goals.

"Through the years, a number of institutions have expressed interest in the Atlantic 10. With an aggressive membership committee in place, the group will be able to respond to a thorough study and implement a plan of action that will be in the best interest of the conference as a whole," Bertovich added.

Atlantic 10 athletics directors also elected a slate of officers to serve on the league's executive committee for the 1990-91 year, and set the dates and sites for its 13 championship sports for the upcoming seasons.

The conference's men's and women's basketball coaches, as well as sports information directors, also conducted their annual meetings.

"We are very satisfied with what we were able to accomplish as a group these last few days," said Steve Bilsky, executive director of athletics and recreation at George Washington University and president of the conference's executive committee. "These were probably the most productive ones we have had in years, and everyone left with an exciting feeling regarding the future direction of the Atlantic 10."

Ron Bertovich

The Atlantic 10 men's basketball tournament will be held March 2-7, 1991. For the third consecutive year, the opening quarterfinal and semifinal rounds will be played at the Palestra in Philadelphia (March 2-4). The tournament's championship game will be March 7 at the site of the highest-seeded remaining team.

The Atlantic 10 women's basketball tournament, to be held March 4-9, also will retain the same format it has had in recent years. The opening and quarterfinal rounds will be played March 4 and 6 on the home courts of the higher-seeded teams. The tournament's semifinal and championship rounds will be March 8-9 at St. Joseph's University (Pennsylvania).

The conference also elected its slate of executive committee officers for the upcoming year. Serving with Bilsky, who was elected president for a third straight year, will be vice-president Charles Theokas, director of athletics at Temple University, and treasurer Don J. DiJulia, director of athletics at St. Joseph's. Lawrence J. Weise, director of athletics at St. Bonaventure University, will serve on the executive committee as past president.

Southwest changes play-offs

Adoption of a nine-team format for the 1991 Southwest Athletic Conference men's basketball tournament and a change in the policy for football officials' assignments were the primary actions taken during the conference's 76th annual spring meeting May 26 in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

The new format for men's basketball will include a Thursday contest prior to the traditional Friday-Sunday schedule at Dallas' Reunion Arena, site of the tournament through 1995. The eighth- and ninth-place squads will meet on the Thursday before the eight-team elimination begins to determine the eighth seed in the tournament.

Ticket prices also will be adjusted for the tournament, though there will not be an additional charge for the Thursday contest. Some seats that sold for $80 (full-tournament package) in previous years now will be $100, while seats in certain end-zone sections will go from $60 to $80.

"We have consulted with several other conferences about their post-season tournaments," Commissioner Fred Jacoby said, "and these charges are well in line with the national trends. Plus, those who purchase the full tournament package will be entitled to attend the SWC women's tournament (in Dallas Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday of the same week) free with the men's package."

SWC football officials, who have utilized the "crew" concept since 1984, will have some alterations for certain games. Under new policies, no official may be assigned to work a game at a member institution that he attended for one or more years.

"In essence, we will replace the one (or more) members of the football officiating crew assigned to work a certain game with a member of another crew for that game only," Jacoby said. "Our officials have expressed concern about working games of schools they attended, and there has been some concern expressed by our coaches."

New grid league set

A new five-team collegiate football conference was formed May 23 at Aurora University. The new Midwest Five Football Conference will begin conference play in 1992 with teams from Aurora, Drake University, Illinois Benedictine College, Olivet Nazarene University and Quincy College.

"A conference affiliation in football is something that we have been looking for since we began our program in 1986," Aurora Director of Athletics Sam S. Bedrosian said. "The conference will give our team a title to play for, and more importantly, it will give our athletes a chance to earn individual recognition with all-conference honors."

The new conference will feature all-conference, coach-of-the-year and all-academic selections each season, along with weekly offensive and defensive player-of-the-week selections. The Midwest Five Football Conference title will be awarded to the team(s) with the best record in conference play.

"The Midwest Five should be a highly competitive football conference," said Bedrosian.

Students in sweat pants, top officials pay tribute to Steitz

Strains of the "Olympic Fanfare" mingled with "Sweet Georgia Brown" in the Springfield College gym May 23, as the basketball world said goodbye to Edward S. Steitz.

"You don't have to read the newspapers to assess his influence on the game," Henry O. Nichols, the national coordinator of men's basketball officials for the NCAA, said at the memorial service. "Every basketball player, coach and official lives with it every day of the season.

"He not only taught me the rules of basketball... but how to fight for what you thought was right and enjoy the battle," Nichols said.

Steitz, who retired last year after 33 years as director of athletics at Springfield, died of a heart attack May 21 in the driveway of his East Longmeadow, Massachusetts, home. He was 69.

Hundreds of mourners, ranging from college students in sweat pants to the game's top national and international officials, packed the basketball court at the college where James Naismith invented the game 99 years ago.

A photograph of Steitz, the longtime secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Men's Basketball Rules Committee, hung from a glass backboard in front of a black drape. A ball rested in the basket underneath. Olympic, NCAA and college flags flew with the U.S. flag on the podium.

Speaker after speaker — from college classmates to fellow coaches, students, athletics directors, and college and conference officials — recalled Steitz as a man who devoted his life to the game but always took the time to be a friend.

"He was an institution in himself, but despite all his prestige and influence, he was fun to be around," said Leon Drury, athletics director at Bryant College and a player on the 1956 Springfield team Steitz took on a world tour, the first sponsored by the State Department.

"I was just one of thousands of Springfield College kids he went to bat for" when they were looking for jobs, said Robert M. "Scotty" Whitelaw, retired commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Steitz oversaw most of the college game's major rules changes in the past quarter-century, including the three-point shot; the 45-second clock; the elimination of jump balls except at the start of the game, and the return of the dunk.

But his influence extended around the world. Steitz was a cofounder of USA Basketball, the governing body for the international teams of this country, and its president for 10 years. He also was chairman of the U.S. Olympic Basketball Committee for the 1984 Games and a member of the international rules committee.

Charles Silvia, retired swimming coach at Springfield, recalled one of Steitz's favorite stories about the Russian coach who, during the darker days of the Cold War, said, "Yah, we play by Eddie's rules. Eddie's rules are the best rules."

Among the floral tributes was a tomato plant — sent in remembrance of the tomatoes Steitz grew and presented as gifts to the famous and common people he met on his travels.

"He carted those tomatoes to every corner of the globe," said William L. Wall, executive director of USA Basketball, who called Steitz's death a great loss to basketball around the world.

"He never wanted to miss anything and he never would slow down and that's why we are all here," Wall said. "We should be remembering him with a pickup game. A referee should be blowing his whistle. And somebody ought to be taking a three-point shot."

New controls on agents sought in bill

Athletics agents soon could face tough new regulations in Louisiana if a measure approved May 25 in the House gains final passage.

The bill by Rep. Randy Roach, D-Lake Charles, no longer would distinguish between NCAA and non-NCAA athletes. Under present law, only agents representing non-NCAA athletes must register and file their contracts with the secretary of state. Roach's bill would include NCAA athletes.

Contracts could be broken 16 days after signature, according to the bill. State law currently allots 10 days to void contracts, United Press International reported.

Roach's bill also includes a provision to prohibit agents from contacting college athletes about playing professionally except at on-campus interviews.

Roach said he proposed his bill after an incident in Texas involving football player Andre Ware of the University of Houston. The 1989 Heisman Trophy winner was approached by a sports agent who tried to convince him to play professionally. Roach said he patterned his bill after Texas law, which prohibits agents from such contacts.

The bill now moves to the state Senate for further consideration.

Florida A&M's women's tennis program placed on probation

The NCAA Committee on Infractions placed Florida A&M University's women's tennis program on probation for two years May 30 for major violations of NCAA legislation. The terms of the probation are as follows:

- The women's tennis team shall end its season during the 1990-91 academic year with the playing of its last regularly scheduled, in-season contest and shall not be eligible to participate in any postseason competition following that season. In addition, the team may not participate in a foreign tour in the summers of 1990 and 1991 and may not play any of its regular-season contests outside the continental United States during the 1990-91 academic year.
- During the 1990-91 academic year, the team may not take advantage of any exceptions to the limitation in the number of tennis contests provided in NCAA Bylaw 17.
- The university shall be prohibited from awarding any new athletically related financial aid awards in women's tennis other than those currently committed to until August 1, 1992.

In addition, if the former head coach who was involved in the violations in this case seeks employment as an athletics department staff member at an NCAA member institution during the next five years, he and the involved institution will be asked to appear before the Committee on Infractions; the committee at that point will consider whether that member institution should be subject to the show-cause procedures of NCAA legislation. Those procedures could limit that coach's athletically related duties at the new institution for a designated period.

The committee found a series of violations related to the provision of improper benefits to student-athletes (including local and out-of-town transportation, cash, gifts for personal use, loans, meals and hotel accommodations) and improper recruiting contacts.

Because these major violations occurred after September 1, 1985, the committee's findings normally would subject the institution to minimum penalties prescribed by the NCAA membership. These penalties include a two-year probationary period, elimination of expense-paid recruiting visits for one year, elimination of off-campus recruiting for one year, possible termination of the employment of all staff members who condoned the violations, and the loss of postseason competition and television opportunities for one year.

The NCAA membership has, though, given the committee the authority to impose lesser penalties if it determines that the case is unique. In this regard, the Committee on Infractions noted the university's prompt action in terminating its association with the involved head women's tennis coach and in disassociating a representative of the institution's athletics interests. The committee also took into consideration the university's efforts in restructuring its tennis program and in improving institutional oversight for the athletics program.

As a result of these mitigating circumstances, the committee suspended several penalties it originally imposed, including:

- A prohibition of expense-paid visits to the institutions for prospective student-athletes from August 1, 1990, to July 31, 1991.
- A second year of postseason sanctions.
- A prohibition of off-campus recruiting activities from August 1, 1990, to July 31, 1991.

Members of the Committee on Infractions are Roy F. Kramer, incoming commissioner of the Southeastern Conference; Beverly E. Ledbetter, vice-president and general counsel at Brown University; John E. Nowak, professor of law at the University of Illinois, Champaign; Patricia A. O'Hara, associate professor of law at the University of Notre Dame; Milton R. Schroeder, professor of law at Arizona State University, and D. Alan Williams (committee chair), associate professor of history at the University of Virginia.

The complete report from the Committee on Infractions follows.

I. Introduction.

The NCAA enforcement staff began an inquiry into possible violations in the women's tennis program at Florida A&M University following receipt of a telephone call in July 1989 from a former student-athlete in the sport of women's tennis. A letter of official inquiry was sent to the university January 23, 1990, and a pre-hearing conference was held with the university's representatives in Tallahassee, Florida, April 18, 1990. This case was heard by the NCAA Committee on Infractions April 20, 1990.

The committee found a series of violations related to the provision of improper benefits to student-athletes (including local transportation, cash, gifts for personal use, loans, out-of-town transportation, meals and hotel accommodations) and improper recruiting contacts. Details of the committee's findings are set forth in Part II of this report.

The institution admitted to all of the allegations except an allegation that the then head women's tennis coach gave cash to a student-athlete to pay certain educational expenses at the university. As a result of information developed during the investigation of this case, the institution terminated its association with the head women's tennis coach and disassociated a representative of the institution's athletics interests. It should be noted that the head women's tennis coach was an unpaid volunteer.

The committee's review of the allegations indicated that the then head women's tennis coach was involved directly in all of the violations and that he violated the principles of ethical conduct by knowingly engaging in activities that were contrary to NCAA regulations. Because this case involved the provision of significant benefits to enrolled and prospective student-athletes in the sport of women's tennis in a manner that was neither isolated nor inadvertent and that resulted in a competitive advantage to the institution, the committee determined that the violations, which are set forth in Part II of this report, constituted a major infractions case.

Since these major violations occurred after September 1, 1985, the committee normally would be required to impose at least the following penalties, which are among the minimum penalties for a major rules violation: a two-year probationary period; elimination of expense-paid recruiting visits in the sport for at least one year; elimination of off-campus recruiting visits in the sport for at least one year; elimination of off-campus recruiting in the sport for at least one year; loss of postseason competition and television appearances for at least one year, and possible termination of the employment of staff members involved in the violations. Under the terms of NCAA legislation that established the minimum penalties, however, the Committee on Infractions may impose lesser penalties if it determines that the case is unique.

The committee noted the university's prompt action in terminating its association with the head women's tennis coach and in disassociating a representative of the institution's athletics interests. The committee also took into consideration the university's efforts in restructuring its tennis program and in improving institutional oversight for the athletics program. Accordingly, the committee adjusted the minimum penalties as follows.

for a period of two years. During the probationary period, the university must provide persuasive evidence of effective control of the intercollegiate athletics program, especially the tennis program. The university's women's tennis team will not be eligible for postseason competition for a period of one year. The institution will be required to recertify its athletics policies and practices to ensure compliance with NCAA regulations. In addition, the institution may not award any new grants-in-aid from May 30, 1990, to August 1, 1992. Finally, the institution will be required to maintain its disassociation of the former head women's tennis coach and a representative of the university's athletics interests for the period of probation.

II. Violations of NCAA legislation, as determined by committee.

A. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.1] During the 1987-88 academic year, the then head women's tennis coach gave a substantial amount of cash to a student-athlete in order for the young woman to pay her university educational expenses that were not covered by an athletics grant-in-aid.

B. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.3-(c)] On one occasion during the 1987-88 academic year and again during the 1988-89 academic year, the then head women's tennis coach rented an automobile for certain members of the women's tennis team for their personal use for a few days; further, the coach also provided local automobile transportation to these student-athletes in order to obtain these vehicles.

C. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.3-(c)] During the 1987-88 and 1988-89 academic years, the then head women's tennis coach permitted three student-athletes to use his personal automobiles in the local area for the young women's personal purposes.

D. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.1] During the period 1987 through 1989, the then head women's tennis coach provided local automobile transportation for several student-athletes to various restaurants in Tallahassee, Florida, where he entertained the young women and a parent for meals. Specifically:

1. During the 1987-88 and 1989-90 academic years, the then head coach transported seven student-athletes to local restaurants where he entertained the young women for meals.

2. On at least two occasions during the 1987-88 and 1988-89 academic years, the then head coach transported one student-athlete and her mother between the young woman's residence and local restaurants where he entertained the young woman and her mother for meals.

E. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.1] On two occasions, once during the 1987-88 academic year and once during the 1988-89 academic year, the then head women's tennis coach provided round-trip automobile transportation for several student-athletes between Tallahassee, Florida, and Atlanta, Georgia, where he paid the cost of the young women's lodging and meals. Specifically:

1. During a weekend in January 1988, the then head coach provided transportation for two student-athletes between Tallahassee and Atlanta where he provided one night's lodging for the group at a hotel and entertained the young women for meals.

2. During a weekend in January 1989, the then head coach provided transportation for three student-athletes between Tallahassee and Atlanta where he provided one night's lodging for the young women at a hotel and entertained the young women for meals.

F. [NCAA Bylaw 16.12.2.1] During the period 1987 through the spring of 1989, the then head women's tennis coach gave $5 to $20 cash on numerous occasions to a student-athlete and, on one occasion, gave $100 to the student-athlete for the young woman's personal use; further, on numerous occasions during this same period, the then head women's tennis coach purchased items for use by the student-athlete.

G. [NCAA Bylaws 13.1.2.1, 13.4.1, 13.5.1 and 13.11.1] In January 1989, while recruiting two prospective student-athletes, the then head women's tennis coach and two representatives of the university's athletics interests arranged for the two prospects to demonstrate their tennis abilities by participating in tennis activities with two enrolled student-athletes on a tennis court at a hotel in Atlanta where the then head coach, the two student-athletes and another student-athlete were lodged. One of the prospects participated in tennis workouts with the two representatives and the student-athletes on Saturday and Sunday mornings, while the second prospect participated only in the Sunday morning tennis workout. Additionally, the then head coach directed tennis drills for the student-athletes and the prospects during the Sunday morning workout, and, after the Saturday workout, the two representatives transported the first prospect to a restaurant where the then head coach purchased breakfast for the young woman, the two representatives and the student-athletes. Finally, based on the first prospect's performance in these workouts, the then head coach offered the young woman an athletics grant-in-aid to attend the university.

H. [NCAA Bylaws 2.3, 10.1-(c) and 10.1-(d)] The former head women's tennis coach involved in this case failed to deport himself in accordance with the generally recognized high standards normally associated with the conduct and administration of intercollegiate athletics in that his involvement in several findings of violations in this report and his provision of false and misleading information to representatives of the NCAA and the university are contrary to the principles of ethical conduct. Specifically:

1. The former coach's involvement in the findings in this case demonstrated a knowing and willful effort on his part to conduct the university's intercollegiate women's tennis program contrary to NCAA legislation.

2. The former coach knowingly provided false and misleading information to the NCAA and institution concerning his knowledge of and involvement in the violation cited in Part II-G of this report during an October 24, 1989, interview conducted by an NCAA enforcement representative and the university's assistant director of athletics.

III. Committee on Infractions penalties.

The Committee on Infractions determined that the violations of NCAA legislation in this case were major. Not only did student-athletes receive improper benefits in the form of cash, gifts, transportation, lodging and meals, but each violation was the direct result of actions of the then head women's tennis coach. Adding to the seriousness of this case were recruiting violations that were orchestrated by the former head women's tennis coach.

Major violations are subject to the schedule of minimum penalties prescribed in Bylaw 19.4.2.2, which permits the imposition of disciplinary measures that represent "appropriate disciplinary and corrective actions."

Because these major violations occurred after September 1, 1985, the committee normally would be required to impose at least the following minimum penalties: a two-year probationary period; elimination of expense-paid recruiting visits in the sport for at least one year; elimination of off-campus recruiting in the sport for at least one year; loss of postseason competition and television appearances for at least one year, and possible termination of the employment of staff members involved in the violations.

The committee noted the university's prompt action in terminating its association with the head women's tennis coach and in disassociating a representative of the institution's athletics interests. The committee also took into consideration the university's efforts in restructuring its tennis program and in improving institutional oversight for the athletics program. Accordingly, the committee has imposed the following penalties.

A. The university shall be publicly reprimanded and censured, and placed on probation for a period of two years from the date these penalties are imposed, which shall be the date the 15-day appeal period expires or the date the institution notifies the executive director that it will not appeal, whichever is earlier, or the date established by NCAA Council subcommittee action in the event of an appeal, it being understood that should any portion of any of the penalties in this case be set aside for any reason other than by appropriate action of the Association, the penalties shall be reconsidered by the Committee on Infractions. Further, Florida A&M University shall be subject to the provisions of NCAA Bylaw 19.4.2.3 concerning repeat violators for a five-year period beginning on the effective date of the penalties in this case.

Executive Committee minutes

Following are the minutes of the May 7, 1990, meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee, which was held at The Broadmoor in Colorado Springs, Colorado. All actions taken by the Executive Committee during the meeting are included.

1. Previous Minutes. It was voted that the minutes of the December 4, 1989, meeting be approved as distributed.

2. Actions Taken by Executive Director. It was voted that the actions taken by the executive director on behalf of the Executive Committee since the December 4 meeting be approved.

3. Administrative Committee Minutes. It was voted that the minutes of Administrative Committee Telephone Conference Nos. 19-20 and Nos. 1-6 be approved as distributed.

4. Return of Net Receipts per Actions of the Committee on Infractions. The Division I Championships Committee recommended approval of the following recommendations of the Committee on Infractions, per Bylaw 31.2.2.5 regarding the use of ineligible players in NCAA championships competition:

a. That Marshall University be required to return its share of receipts after distributions to the Southern Conference office and other institutions in that conference ($42,241) for its participation in the 1987 Division I Men's Basketball Championship;

b. That the University of Maryland, College Park, be required to return its share of receipts after distributions to the Atlantic Coast Conference office and other institutions in that conference ($407,378) for its participation in the 1988 Division I Men's Basketball Championship. It was noted that this action would not be in effect until the institution's appeal was acted upon by the NCAA Council;

c. That Houston Baptist University be required to return 90 percent of its share of net receipts for its participation in the 1987, 1988 and 1989 National Collegiate Men's Gymnastics Championships ($10,532), and

d. That North Carolina State University be required to return its share of receipts after distributions to the Atlantic Coast Conference office and other institutions in that conference for its participation in the 1987 and 1988 Division I Men's Basketball Championships. It was noted that the specific amount of North Carolina State's share would be reported to the national office as soon as it was determined.

e. It was voted that the recommendations of the Committee on Infractions be approved.

5. Football Television Assessment. NCAA Executive Director Richard D. Schultz indicated that the College Football Association had responded positively to the suggestion that it consider providing public service announcements for the NCAA on network football telecasts in exchange for the elimination of the four-percent football television assessment.

It was voted that the executive director explore this concept further with the CFA and report at the August meeting.

6. Funding for Initial-Eligibility Requirements Poster. The Executive Committee was advised that the NCAA Council, at its October 1989 meeting, had approved the production of a poster setting forth the basic requirements of Bylaw 14.3 (initial-eligibility requirements) for distribution to high schools, subject to the approval of funding by the Executive Committee. The estimated cost was $55,000.

It was voted that the funding be approved.

7. Report of the Budget Subcommittee. Ms. Sweet, chair, reported that the subcommittee had met the previous evening to discuss personnel matters, review the Association's departmental one- and five-year plans and discuss adjustments in the 1989-90 general operating budget.

a. The subcommittee proposed the following budget adjustments to reflect additional moneys generated for 1989-90 through the CBS television contract:

(1) Revenues $3 million contribution to the NCAA Visitors Center, and $3 and $1.5 million incremental rights fees for the 1990 Division I Men's Basketball Championship;

(2) Expenses $3 million increase in the Visitors Center budget to enable it to be completed before the close of the fiscal year; $2.7 million increase in teams' share of the incremental rights fees; $1 million additional allocations to the Divisions II and III championships (for 1990-91 events); $657,000 decrease in the amount to be carried forward from 1989 surplus, and $143,000 increase in contingency.

b. It was voted that the adjustments in the 1989-90 general operating budget be approved, bringing the total budget to $98,228,000.

8. National Office Internship Program. The Executive Committee reviewed a request to increase the number of interns at the NCAA national office from six to 10 at an estimated additional cost of $43,200 (for a total budget of $144,000). Mr. Schultz indicated that the number and quality of applicants had increased significantly over the previous year. He also noted that the purpose of the program was to provide opportunities for ethnic minorities and women, rather than support for the staff.

a. It was suggested that no action be taken until the Executive Committee reviewed a written report on the status and success of the internship program in general.

b. It was voted that the number of interns not be increased from six to 10 in 1990-91, but that the matter be considered after review of a comprehensive report on the program. [For 12, Against 1.]

9. Report of the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Membership Structure. Ms. Sweet presented the special committee's report, noting that the committee had attempted to establish what it believed to be appropriate criteria for membership in Division I and provide institutions that did not meet the criteria a three-year period in which do to so. The report focused on legislative autonomy, Division I membership criteria, multidivision classification, championships eligibility and enhancement of Division II, with financial aid considerations to be finalized at the committee's June meeting.

10. Report of the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues. Ms. Sweet, chair of the special committee, advised the Executive Committee of the preliminary concepts developed at its May 5-6 meeting. She noted that the special committee intended to conduct hearings June 14 in Washington, D.C.; San Francisco, and Chicago to receive comments from the membership and would meet June 18 to refine its recommendations. Among the concepts were the following:

a. Catastrophic-injury insurance for all student-athletes;

b. Increased transportation and per diem expenses for NCAA championships, including full funding for Divisions II and III championships;

c. Increased official traveling party and per diem for Division I men's basketball;

d. A membership trust as a hedge against the future;

e. A graduation incentive for Division I student-athletes who graduated within a certain time period. It was noted, however, that subsequent to the meeting, there did not appear to be sufficient support for this concept;

f. Increased postgraduate and undergraduate scholarships;

g. A fund to provide "emergency" grants to Division I student-athletes, to be administered by the conferences;

h. Financial enhancement of Division II, and

i. Distribution of the remaining revenues to the Division I membership via a formula that would take into consideration both the breadth of institutions' programs (i.e., the number of sports sponsored, the number of NCAA championships participants and the number of grants-in-aid offered) and conferences' performances in the Division I Men's Basketball Championship over some period of years (e.g., three to six). It was noted that relative to these broad-based criteria, the committee intended to recommend minimum levels of sports sponsorship and grants-in-aid compatible with the recommendations of the Special Committee to Review the NCAA Membership Structure so as not to be counterproductive to the latter's efforts.

11. Report of the Basketball Officiating Committee. The Executive Committee took the following actions on the recommendations of the Basketball Officiating Committee:

a. Men's officiating program.

(1) Approved that any conference employing "scratch" procedures relative to the assignment of officials shall be ineligible to receive funds through the conference grant program; approved a definition of scratch procedures as those that provide coaches, either individually or collectively, with the direct or indirect authority to hire, retain, affect the assignments of or release any official, and agreed that conference supervisors would be encouraged to solicit, either orally or in writing, coaches' evaluations of officials, noting that that information would be treated as advisory only and that complete control of the officiating staff would remain vested in the conference office, and

(2) Took no action on the recommendation that the Division I Men's Basketball Committee be urged to prohibit the assignment of split crews (i.e., officials from different conferences assigned to a given game) in nonconference games as a condition of automatic qualification; instead, referred this topic to member conferences, noting that the administration of officiating assignments traditionally was a responsibility of the conferences.

b. Women's program.

(1) Encouraged the Division I Women's Basketball Committee to consider prohibiting scratch procedures as a condition of eligibility for conference grant funds and automatic qualification, effective with the 1992 championship, and

(2) Declined to endorse the request that the Basketball Officiating Committee be permitted to encourage experimentation with three-person crews during 1990-91, noting that the use of such crews already was an experimental rule and that conferences and institutions were free to employ it if they wished to do so.

c. Men's and women's programs.

(1) Regarding mandatory attendance requirements for the men's and women's officiating clinics, reluctantly approved that for 1990 only, attendance by either the head coach or a full-time member of the coaching staff (not a part-time or graduate assistant coach) would fulfill this requirement, and agreed to evaluate the requirement subsequent to the 1990 clinics;

(2) Amended the officiating components of the conference grant program to require a conference to submit with its grant application procedures for identifying, recruiting, hiring, training and evaluating game officials, and to include specific information regarding opportunities for ethnic minorities and women in these areas;

(3) Agreed to require conferences to submit a complete record of conference and nonconference game assignments for the purpose of determining compliance with the scratch policy approved earlier;

(4) Requested a comprehensive status report and evaluation of the conference grant program in general;

(5) Approved the conduct of an annual meeting for all Division I supervisors of women's basketball officials (or conference representative responsible for women's basketball officiating) on dates corresponding to the Collegiate Commissioners Association's fall meeting of supervisors of men's basketball officials; approved the use of conference grant funds for coach airfare for supervisors to attend the respective men's and women's supervisors' meetings, and urged the Division I Women's Basketball Committee to require that supervisors of women's basketball officials attend the meeting as a condition of automatic qualification, and

(6) Took no action on the concept of promoting a nationwide sportsmanship campaign, but noted that significant progress had been made in this area with the more stringent penalties adopted by the Men's Basketball Rules Committee regarding unsportsmanlike conduct.

12. Report of the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports. The Executive Committee took the following actions on the recommendations of the competitive safeguards committee:

a. Declined to ban the use of tobacco products on the field of play at NCAA championships; noted that this recommendation had been denied in May 1989 on the grounds that inasmuch as tobacco products were not illegal or performance-enhancing, this was not an appropriate area in which the NCAA should legislate activity, and noted that conferences and institutions may wish to take such action on their own;

b. Determined that testing during team championships would be conducted for both winning and losing teams (rather than just winning teams), and that individuals to be tested would be selected from the entire team roster, regardless of whether they actually played; noted that these revisions in the testing protocol were necessitated by the legislation adopted at the 1990 Convention that provided for the loss of both in-season and postseason eligibility as a result of positive drug tests;

c. Approved that 36 student-athletes would be tested at each site selected for the year-round drug-testing program, noting that the specific method of selection would be determined at the competitive safeguards committee's June meeting;

d. Approved the addition of two random selections for drug testing at the NCAA tennis championships;

e. Approved the all-sport drug-testing plans recommended by the committee;

f. Agreed that a series of questions and answers about the year-round drug-testing program should be published in The NCAA News and disseminated to all institutions (Note: the feature appeared in the May 23, 1990, issue of The NCAA News.);

g. Approved revisions of the drug-testing protocol necessitated by the implementation of the year-round drug-testing program;

h. Approved a preliminary testing schedule that incorporated the Executive Committee's earlier decision that testing be conducted at all Division I football-playing institutions at least once per year and 25 percent of those institutions be retested during that year, and that there be no limit on the number of times an institution may be retested;

i. Declined to comment on the process for selection of student-athletes to be tested during the year-round program, instead referring this to the competitive safeguards committee for recommendation;

j. Agreed that Division I institutions that sponsor football but that do not participate in postseason competition should be included in the year-round testing program;

k. Approved that student-athletes who are ruled ineligible as a result of an NCAA positive drug test would be subject to testing by the NCAA at any time during their period of ineligibility, and that all student-athletes who were ruled ineligible would be subject to a mandatory exit drug test during the last month of their minimum period of ineligibility (i.e., the 12th month of a one-year suspension), with the results of such tests provided to the NCAA Eligibility Committee;

l. Noted the final results from during testing conducted at 1989-90 fall championships and certified postseason football games, and

m. Approved the immediate hiring of two administrators on the NCAA sports-sciences staff in order to proceed with the implementation of the year-round drug-testing program in August 1990.

n. It was the sense of the meeting that in the future, the Executive Committee should be particularly mindful of proposed legislation that would have an impact on the Association's budget or personnel needs, in order to plan appropriately.

13. Recommendations of the NCAA Committee on Review and Planning. The Executive Committee reviewed that committee's recommendation that there be identification, implementation and communication to the membership of enhanced program-evaluation and budget-accountability efforts at both the professional staff and Executive Committee levels, noting that the long-range planning project in the national office was an appropriate step in that direction. Mr. Schultz indicated that the Budget Subcommittee intended to review national office operations and policies relative to cost containment and effectiveness.

14. Guidelines for Evaluating Quality of Competition. In their separate meetings, the Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees reviewed proposed guidelines to assist sports committees and the respective championships committees in evaluating the criterion "quality of competition" relative to requests for bracket expansions.

a. The Divisions I and II Championships Committees recommended approval of the following considerations:

(1) Overall won-lost records of institutions under consideration but not selected for championships competition;

(2) Won-lost records of teams under consideration relative to those selected;

(3) Results from the previous championship that would indicate whether parity existed in the current field (i.e., success of lower-seeded teams or those selected last; margin of victory in early rounds);

(4) Overall won-lost records of institutions selected for the championship the previous year but not for the current year, and their won-lost records against teams selected;

(5) List of institutions that had been ranked at some time during the course of the season in an NCAA or coaches association poll but not selected, and

(6) Number of new teams in the championship, or the degree of turnover and change in weekly polls.

b. The Division III Championships Committee concurred with the recommendations of the Divisions I and II Championships Committees, and it recommended the following additional guidelines:

(1) Inclusion of three to five years of data in the above considerations, rather than data from only the previous year;

(2) Analysis of the won-lost records and strength of schedule of the last five teams under consideration relative to the last five selected, and

(3) Analysis of relative regional strength.

c. It was voted that the recommendations be approved as guidelines (in no priority order or with any specific weight assigned) for evaluation of the criterion 'quality of competition' relative to requests for bracket expansion.

15. National Collegiate Championships and Related Matters.

a. Field hockey.

(1) Joint recommendations. The Divisions I and III Championships Committees recommended the following regarding the Division I and Division III Field Hockey Championships:

(a) Increase officials' fees as follows (current fees are in parentheses): Division I first- and second-round games and Division III regional games umpires $80 ($70); alternate official $55 ($45); Divisions I and III semifinal, third-place and championship games—umpires $95 ($85), and alternate officials $60 ($50), and

(b) Do not reimburse expenses of or pay a stipend to members of the protest committee; further, advise the Field Hockey Committee that the games committee in essence is the protest committee and should be referred to as such.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

(2) Division I. The Division I Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division I championship:

(a) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the Atlantic 10 and Midwest Collegiate Field Hockey Conferences, and

(b) Designate Rutgers University, New Brunswick, as the host institution for the 1990 championship, November 17-18.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

(3) Division III. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III championship:

(a) Rank 20 teams, rather than 10, in the biweekly national poll, and

(b) Remand to the Field Hockey Committee for further review the recommendation that the regional and final games be played Saturday and Sunday, rather than Friday and Saturday, with consideration given to the possibility of jeopardizing the championship game due to darkness.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

b. Women's lacrosse. The Divisions I and III Championships Committees recommended that Trenton State College serve as host institution for the finals of the 1991 Divisions I and III Women's Lacrosse Championships, May 18-19. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

c. Men's and women's rifle. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that the University of Alaska, Fairbanks, not be designated as the host institution for the 1991 National Collegiate Men's and Women's Rifle Championships, due primarily to travel costs and possible additional missed class time due to the site's location. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

d. Men's soccer.

(1) Joint recommendation. The Divisions I, II and III Championships Committees recommended that officials' fees for the Divisions I, II and III Men's Soccer Championships be increased as follows (current fees are in parentheses): First, second and third rounds—referee $100 ($70), linesmen $60 ($45), alternate $30 ($25); semifinals and final—referee $130 ($90), linesmen $80 ($70), alternate $50 ($40). It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

(2) Division I. The Division I Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division I Men's Soccer Championship:

(a) Do not conduct the semifinal and championship games Friday and Sunday rather than Saturday and Sunday in order to provide a day of rest between games; and direct the staff to prepare information regarding the amount of missed class time in all NCAA sports during the regular season relative to the amount of missed class time during the NCAA championships in those sports;

(b) Designate the University of South Florida as the host institution for the 1990 championship, November 30-December 2;

(c) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the following: Atlantic Coast, Atlantic 10, Big West, Midwestern Collegiate, West Coast Conferences; the Colonial Athletic Association, and the Council of Ivy Group Presidents, and

(d) Defer until the August meeting action on appeals by the Big East and Northeast Conferences of their denial of automatic qualification; express concern to the Men's Soccer Committee regarding the low percentage of automatic-qualifying positions in the bracket (relative to other NCAA championships) and the warnings issued to additional conferences, particularly in light of the recent expansion from 28 to 32 teams, and request rationale for this posture, to be reviewed at the August meeting.

(e) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

(3) Division II. The Division II Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division II Men's Soccer Championship:

(a) Do not expand the championship bracket from 12 to 16 teams, and

(b) Award automatic qualifiction for the 1990 championship to the New England Collegiate, Northern California Athletic and Sunshine State Conferences.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

(4) Division III. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III Men's Soccer Championship:

(a) Expand the bracket from 24 to 32 teams.

(i) It was explained that while the Division

Executive

III Championships Committee felt strongly about the merits of the bracket expansion, it also understood that there may be sensitivity on the part of the Divisions I and II membership to such expansion. For these reasons, it was seeking the reaction of and assistance of the Executive Committee in resolving this issue.

(ii) Discussion ensued regarding the timing of the request vis-a-vis the ongoing work of the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues and the impact on the Association's budget, particularly in light of the fact that the Divisions I and II Championships Committees had denied similar requests for bracket expansion pending the resolution of these questions.

(iii) The Executive Committee discussed the history of the Divisions II and III block grants. It was the sense of the meeting that the grants should be redefined as "allocations" (i.e., specific fixed amounts in the Association's general operating budget that may not be exceeded).

(iv) It was voted that the bracket be expanded from 24 to 32 teams, and that fixed allocations for both the Divisions II and Division III championships transportation and per diem expenses be included in the 1990-91 budget. [Note: In effect, the term block grant will be replaced with a budgeted allocation that is not dependent upon excess receipts, but the moneys will continue to be administered as they have in the past. The actual amount will be determined in July.]

(b) Revise the championships format as follows: Select at least three and no more than five teams from the New England, Northeast, Metro, Mid-Atlantic, South and Great Lakes regions; select at least two and no more than three teams from the South Central region; select at least one and no more than three teams from the North Central and West regions; include automatic qualifiers in each region's allocation, and select the remaining teams at large and place them in the bracket within their respective regions;

(c) Approve the realignment of geographical regions as recommended by the Men's Soccer Committee, and

(d) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the following: Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic, Independent College Athletic, Massachusetts State College Athletic, New Jersey State Athletic, North Coast Athletic and State University of New York Athletic Conferences and the University Athletic Association.

(e) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

e. Women's soccer.

(1) Joint recommendations. The Divisions I, II and III Championships Committee recommended that officials' fees for all three championships be increased as follows (current fees are in parentheses): preliminary rounds—referee $100 ($70), linesmen $70 ($45), bench $40 ($25); championship session—referee $130 ($90), linesmen $80 ($60), bench $50 ($30). It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

(2) Division I. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that the states of Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas be realigned from the West and South regions to the Central region. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

(3) Division II. The Division II Championships Committee recommended that the Division II Women's Soccer Championship not be expanded from four to six teams. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

(4) Division III. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III Women's Soccer Championship:

(a) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championships to the Independent Collegiate Athletic Conference, and

(b) Increase the number of geographic regions from four to five and realign institutions as proposed by the Women's Soccer Committee.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

f. Men's and women's swimming. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that the request of the NCAA Men's and Women's Swimming Committee that the number of participants in the Division I Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving Championships remain at a 1:12 participation ratio be denied, thus reaffirming its May 1989 directive that standards be established to achieve a 1:14 ratio by 1991 and a 1:16 ratio by 1992. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

g. Men's and women's track and field.

(1) Division II. The Division II Championships Committee recommended that the following be designated as host institutions:

(a) Regional competition of the 1990 Division II Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, November 3: East—Kutztown University of Pennsylvania; South—Mississippi College; Great Lakes—Southeast Missouri State University; Central—South Dakota State University; West—University of California, Riverside, and

(b) 1991 Division II Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, November 9: Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville.

(c) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

(2) Division III. The Division III Championships Committee recommended that the following be designated as host institutions:

(a) Regional competition of the 1990 Division III Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, November 10: Central—Waverly College; New York—Union College; Mideast—Allentown College; South—Emory University; West—Claremont-Mudd-Scripps Colleges; New England—Southeastern Massachusetts University; Great Lakes—Heidelberg College; Midwest—Augustana College (Illinois).

(b) 1990 Division III Men's and Women's Cross Country Championships, November 17: Grinnell College, and

(d) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

h. Men's volleyball. The Division I Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the National Collegiate Men's Volleyball Championship:

(1) Designate Ball State University as the host institution for the 1992 championship, and

(2) Do not revise the championship dates to conduct the semifinals and finals on Thursday-Saturday, rather than Friday-Saturday.

(3) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

i. Men's water polo. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that the Big West Conference and the Eastern and Western Water Polo Associations be awarded automatic qualification for the 1990 National Collegiate Men's Water Polo Championship. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

j. Division I women's basketball. The Division I Championships Committee recommended that institutions participating in the NCAA Women's Final Four receive two days' per diem prior to competition (Thursday and Friday) rather than the standard one day's per diem prior to competition, noting that effective in 1991 the championship would be conducted Saturday and Sunday rather than Friday and Sunday. It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

k. Division I-AA football. The Division I Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division I-AA Football Championship:

(1) Permit the Division I-AA Football Committee to avoid pairing teams from the same conference during first-round games;

(2) Increase officials' fees from $200 to $275 per game;

(3) Approve the concept of earmarking $50,000 of the championship receipts to underwrite production expenses for a weekly television highlights show, to be produced and marketed by the NCAA communications department or an outside company;

(4) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the following: Big Sky, Gateway Collegiate Athletic, Ohio Valley, Southern, Southland and Yankee Conferences;

(5) Defer until the August meeting the recommendation that the $250,000 rights fee assigned by CBS Sports be increased to $500,000, and

(6) Defer until the August meeting the recommended revisions of the distribution of receipts formula.

(7) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

l. Division I women's volleyball. The Division I Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division I Women's Volleyball Championship:

(1) Do not expand the bracket from 32 to 40 teams;

(2) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the following: Atlantic Coast, Atlantic 10, Big East, Big Eight, Big Sky, Big Ten, Big West, Gateway Collegiate Athletic, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic, Mid-American, Pacific-10, Southeastern, Southland, Southwest, Western Athletic and West Coast Conferences;

(3) In the event that two teams from the same conference are ranked Nos. 1 and 2 in the final national poll, permit the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee to place them in separate regional brackets, with the second-ranked team traveling out of the region; note that this should not be interpreted by the committee as an endorsement of moving toward national seeding;

(4) Do not place a limit on the number of teams selected from one conference, inasmuch as such action would be contrary to Bylaw 31.3.5;

(5) Designate the University of California, Los Angeles, as the host institution for the 1991 championship, December 19 and 21;

(6) Do not conduct the regional tournaments at predetermined sites at this time; but continue to monitor the growth in attendance at regional tournaments and reevaluate the advisability of predetermined sites at a later date;

(7) Do not increase the percentage of net receipts retained by host institutions; and advise the committee that if it is concerned about the financial commitment required of host institutions, it should consider eliminating the 75-percent guarantee of net receipts;

(8) Support legislation to increase the size of the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee from six to eight members, including two representatives from each of the four volleyball regions and a minimum of one athletics administrator from each region, and

(9) Do not support legislation to amend Bylaw 12.5.4 (restricting the number and size of manufacturers' logos on athletics apparel and equipment) to apply to any individual who has access to the playing surface.

(10) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

m. Division I baseball. The Division I Championships Committee reported that it had reviewed a progress report on negotiations between the Division I Baseball Committee and the College World Series, Inc., to serve as the sponsoring agency for the 1991 and future College World Series, noting that the committee hoped to announce a new agreement at the start of the 1990 championship.

It was voted that the Administrative Committee be authorized to approve a new agreement on behalf of the Executive Committee when negotiations are completed, upon the recommendation of the Division I Baseball Committee.

n. Division II women's basketball. The Division II Championships Committee recommended that the Executive Committee support legislation to increase the size of the Division II Women's Basketball Committee from six to eight persons.

It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

o. Division II football. The Division II Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division II Football Championship:

(1) Take no action on the recommendation that transportation and per diem expenses for the championship be reimbursed from the Division II allocation and gross net receipts be distributed to the participating institutions (currently, receipts are not distributed to the participants until after transportation and per diem expenses are paid). It was noted that full funding would be provided for all championships if the recommendations of the Special Advisory Committee to Review Recommendations Regarding Distribution of Revenues were approved, and that the Division II Championships Committee was considering a revenue distribution formula similar to that for Division I, which may preclude distribution of receipts in other championships;

(2) Remand to the Division II Football Committee for more information the recommendation that the process for awarding automatic qualification to all 10 conferences be initiated for the 1991 championship; direct it to include consideration of quality of play within each conference, and

(3) Do not permit the committee to recommend that visible 25-second clocks be used in all rounds of the championship.

(4) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

p. Division II women's volleyball. The Division II Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division II Women's Volleyball Championship:

(1) Do not expand the bracket from 20 to 24 teams;

(2) Award automatic qualification for the 1990 championship to the California Collegiate and North Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conferences, and remand to the Division II Women's Volleyball Committee for further review the recommendation that the Lone Star Conference be awarded automatic qualification;

(3) Realign the State University of New York, Buffalo, from the Northeast to the Atlantic region; and realign the University of Alaska, Anchorage; the University of Alaska, Fairbanks, and Eastern Montana College from the South Central to the Northwest region;

(4) Effective with the 1991 championship, consider the results of only three-of-five-game matches for selection purposes;

(5) Effective with the 1990 season, conduct the national poll weekly, rather than biweekly, and

(6) Support legislation for the 1991 Convention to increase the size of the Division II Women's Volleyball Committee from four to six members.

(7) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

q. Division III baseball. The Division III Championships Committee recommended that the request to expand the Division III Baseball Championship bracket from 24 to 32 teams be deferred until the August meeting, pending the availability of more definitive information about the 1990-91 budget and Division III allocation.

r. Division III men's basketball. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III Men's Basketball Championship:

(1) Designate Wittenberg University as the host institution for the 1991 championship, March 15-16, and

(2) Support legislation for the 1991 Convention to increase the Division III Men's Basketball Committee from six to eight members.

(3) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

s. Division III football. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III Football Championship:

(1) Conduct the 1990 and 1991 championships in Bradenton, Florida, December 8 and December 14, respectively, with the Bradenton Kiwanis Club as the sponsoring agency and the University of South Florida as the host institution, and

(2) Award Columbus College a $1,000 honorarium for serving as host institution for the 1989 championship.

(3) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

t. Men's golf. The Division III Championships Committee recommended that Nebraska Wesleyan University serve as the host institution for the 1991 Division III Men's Golf Championships, May 21-24.

It was voted that the recommendation be approved.

u. Division III women's volleyball. The Division III Championships Committee recommended the following regarding the Division III Women's Volleyball Championship:

(1) Specify that at least two teams must be selected from each of the six regions for the championship;

(2) Reduce the number of referees at the finals from four to three and pay each a flat fee of $300;

(3) Increase the scorer's fees from $20 to $25 at first-round and quarterfinals competition; and increase lines judges' fees from $15 to $20 at first-round and quarterfinals competition and from $20 to $25 at the finals;

(4) Permit the committee to rank 15 teams in the national poll, rather than 10, and

(5) Award automatic qualification to the following for the 1990 championship: College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin; Michigan Intercollegiate and University Athletic Associations; New England Women's 8, and Middle Atlantic States Collegiate, Minnesota Intercollegiate, Ohio, Southern California Intercollegiate, and State University of New York Athletic Conferences.

(6) It was voted that the recommendations be approved.

16. Corporate Partner Program. The Executive Committee reviewed a document outlining the philosophy and history of the NCAA corporate partner program.

a. Mr. Schultz indicated that the Association would realize approximately $22 million from the next series of four-year contracts with various corporate partners. He also emphasized that the program precluded title sponsorships of NCAA events and purposely provided limited corporate visibility in order to ensure the integrity of the Association, its programs and championships.

b. Some members expressed concern about the number and caliber of corporate partners, as well as the potential negative impact the program could have on member conferences' and institution's efforts in these areas. Mr. Schultz noted that the number of corporate partners was limited by contract to 15, and that the NCAA membership shared in the revenues, either directly through reduced expenses for certain services and products, or indirectly through the programs and services made possible by corporate partner moneys.

17. Policy Regarding Institutional Designations. The Executive Committee reviewed a series of correspondence regarding the Association's policy of recognizing only one athletics director and one faculty athletics representative at each member institution, including those with dual-structure (i.e., separate men's and women's) athletics departments. It was noted that the institutional information form, on which institutions designate the five individuals to receive Association mailings, is sent to athletics directors, rather than to chief executive officers, inasmuch as the form requests a significant amount of information.

It was voted that the executive director be authorized to develop a separate form by which chief executive officers may designate the five individuals at the institution to receive Association mailings.

18. Revisions of Bylaw 31.

a. It was voted that the following Bylaw 31.01.3 be deleted: "Support of Championships. Member institutions are required to support NCAA championships, unless it is their decision not to engage in any season-end or postseason competition, or unless they have chosen not to participate in such NCAA championships through a joint declaration procedure in conjunction with another organization."

[Note: The Association's legal counsel had recommended that this regulation be deleted in order to avoid potential antitrust violations. It was noted that a preseason declaration of intent to participate in NCAA championships would be required in order to ascertain institutions' intentions regarding postseason competition.]

b. It was voted that Bylaw 31.1.9.1 be revised as follows: 'Financial Penalties. A governing sports committee may assess a financial penalty against an institution for failure of any of its representatives to adhere to the policies and procedures governing championships administration, subject to review by and appeal to the Executive Committee. The institution may be assessed: [Paragraphs (a), (b) unchanged; add new (c) and renumber accordingly.]

(c) "Cancellation of all or a portion of the honorarium for hosting an NCAA championship for failure to submit the financial report within 60 days following the competition, as specified in Bylaw 31.4.1.1."

c. It was voted that Bylaw 31.5 be revised to add the following:

"31.5.2.1 Deductions from Gross Receipts. The following expenses incurred by the sponsoring agency of a postseason football game may be deducted from gross receipts: "(a) Letter of credit required for initial certification or recertification, and "(b) Annual certification fee paid to the Association. "31.5.4 Loss-of-Income Insurance. The management of each certified postseason football game annually shall make available loss-of-income insurance for a participating institution to purchase at its option and expense, which may be deducted from the respective institution's share of gross receipts."

19. Proposed Amendments to Constitution 4.2.3 and Bylaw 18.1. The Executive Committee reviewed proposed legislative amendments intended to clarify that the Executive Committee retains exclusive authority to establish the policies and procedures for the selection of championships participants, formats and distribution of revenue.

a. It was proposed that Constitution 4.2.3 be amended as follows:

"4.2.3 Duties and Responsibilities. The Executive Committee shall: [4.2.3-(a) through 4.2.3-(i) unchanged.]

"(j) Retain the exclusive authority to establish and revise the policies and procedures governing the administration of NCAA championships, including selection processes, formats and distribution of revenues to participating institutions, and [4.2.3-(j) relettered as 4.2.3-(k), unchanged.]

b. It was voted that the Council be asked to sponsor the proposed amendment for the 1991 Convention.

c. It was proposed that Bylaw 18.1 be amended as follows:

"18.1 Regulations and Authority for Conduct of Championships. All NCAA championships shall be conducted in accordance with this bylaw and the policies and procedures established by the Executive Committee, which shall retain the exclusive authority to establish and revise the policies and procedures governing the administration of NCAA championships, including selection processes, formats and distribution of revenues to participating institutions. They shall be under the control, direction and supervision of the appropriate sports committees, subject to the requirements, standards and conditions prescribed in Bylaw 31."

d. It was voted that the Council be asked to sponsor the proposed amendment for the 1991 Convention.

20. Convention Planning. The Executive Committee reviewed a memorandum regarding planning for the 1991 Convention and took the following actions:

a. Agreed that the volume of legislation anticipated for the 1991 Convention may necessitate the addition of one-half day to the Division I business session and one-half day to the general business session; noted that the parliamentarian believed that parliamentary procedures precluded moving the general business session ahead of its published time in the event the Division I business session ended early; and referred the matter to the Administrative Committee for resolution pending further information from the parliamentarian;

b. Agreed to require the use of voting paddles to change the order of business;

c. Referred the issue of reserved seating for conferences or divisions at the business sessions and honors dinner to the Collegiate, University Division and College Division Commissioners Associations for resolution and agreed to add this question to the Convention survey;

d. Referred to the commissioners groups a proposal to schedule meetings in four-hour blocks (due to the proliferation of events on the schedule) and asked that they offer alternatives;

e. Voted to discontinue charging two registration fees to persons who serve as a voting delegate for both a member institution and a conference;

f. Approved the New Orleans Hilton Riverside and Towers and New Orleans Convention Center as the site of the 1993 Convention, January 8-14, and

g. Voted to accept the remainder of the report.

21. Affirmative Action Plan. The Executive Committee reviewed the annual report on the Association's affirmative action plan, noting that as requested, the categories "officials and managers," "administrators" and "office and clerical personnel" were more specifically defined in terms of the number of minority and female employees. Also included was a historical review of the numbers of women and minority employees since 1980.

It was voted that the report on the affirmative action plan be approved.

22. Techniques in Effective Alcohol Management (TEAM). The Executive Committee reviewed a request from Techniques for Effective Alcohol Management, a group formed to address problems related to alcohol management at sports events, that the Association support its efforts.

a. It was noted that a similar request had been denied by the Executive Committee in May 1989, due primarily to the fact that the Association already had implemented programs, policies and safeguards in this regard and because the financial involvement expected of the Association was unknown. Subsequent to that action, TEAM had clarified that it was not requesting any financial support or commitment on the part of the Association, but rather only the Association's support of its efforts, inasmuch as several NCAA member institutions were involved in the program.

b. It was voted that the Association support TEAM's efforts to the extent requested.

23. National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week. Mr. Schultz advised the Executive Committee of a request from the Inter-Association Task Force on Alcohol and Other Substance Abuse that it be permitted to use the mark "National Collegiate" in conjunction with the promotion of its Alcohol Awareness Week activities. He indicated that the Association had vigorously protected its registered marks in court numerous times, and that any softening of this position may result in the marks becoming part of the public domain and, therefore, loss of the NCAA's control over their usage.

It was voted that the Inter-Association Task Force be prohibited from using the mark 'National Collegiate' or any other registered marks or names of the Association in conjunction with its activities.

24. Playing-Rules Changes. In accordance with the oversight provisions of Bylaws 21.3.4.2-(c) and 21.4.1.4, the Executive Committee reviewed a summary of changes in playing rules in the areas of safety, financial impact and image of the sport and took the following actions:

a. Men's and women's soccer.

(1) Approved that shinguards be mandatory, effective August 15, 1991;

(2) Reviewed the proposed change in the substitution rule that would eliminate restrictions on the number of players who could participate in a contest and preclude a player who has been substituted for from reentering the game in the same period; agreed that there was no apparent impact on player safety, the image of the sport or costs; noted that while the change may be controversial, that in itself did not constitute "image;" concluded, therefore, that the change did not fall within the Executive Committee's oversight authority and so took no action (accordingly, the rule will be in effect for the 1990 season), and

(3) Approved that any player who has received a total of five cautions or ejections in one season shall not be permitted to compete in the next regularly scheduled game, including tournament games; that each three additional cautions or ejections shall result in an additional one-game suspension; that if the total is reached in the final game of the season, the player shall not compete in the first scheduled game of the next season, and that any game in which a suspended player participates illegally shall be forfeited to the opposing team.

b. Men's and women's basketball.

(1) Accepted the report of the NCAA Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees regarding common rules and differences between the men's and women's rules; expressed concern that the two groups appeared to be moving away from common rules in areas where commonality could logically be achieved without jeopardizing either game; and directed that the two committees, subcommittees or other representatives of each meet together at some point prior to the finalization and public announcement of rules in order to resolve such differences where possible and feasible;

(2) Approved the following recommendations of the Men's Basketball Rules Committee:

(a) That players or coaches who are assessed two technical fouls for unsporting conduct be ejected from the game;

(b) That the penalty for participating in a fight be increased to a one-game suspension after the first occurrence and suspension for the remainder of the season after the second occurrence;

(c) That a player may grasp or hang on the rim of the basket only if fouled or to avoid obvious injury, and

(d) That the secretary-rules editors of the Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees, the men's research subcommittee chair and the past chair of the men's committee (who continues to conduct research related to equipment) be reimbursed expenses to meet with interested manufacturers in June in Kansas City.

c. Football. David M. Nelson, secretary-rules editor of the NCAA Football Rules Committee, joined the meeting at 2:15 p.m. to present that committee's recommendations. Milo R. Lude, chair of the committee, joined the session in progress.

(1) The Executive Committee was advised that the rules committee intended to submit two resolutions at the 1991 Convention regarding the Executive Committee's oversight authority in playing-rules matters: one that in effect would exempt sports committees with only rules-making responsibilities (i.e., those with no championships administration responsibilities) from that oversight authority, and one to overturn the Executive Committee's May 1989 denial of the recommendation that visible 25-second clocks be made mandatory.

(2) Mr. Nelson reviewed the three proposed rules changes under consideration: (i) that the width of goal-post uprights be reduced from 23 feet, 4 inches to 18 feet, 6 inches; (ii) that officiating crews be assigned from the same officiating organization and "split crews" be prohibited, and (iii) that a visible 25-second clock be made mandatory. It was noted that on March 1, the first recommendation had been approved by the Administrative Committee but subsequently was reconsidered and remanded by that body to the Executive Committee; and that the latter two had been denied in May 1989.

Discussion ensued regarding the merits of all three recommendations and their impact on institutions' costs and/or player safety. Messrs. Nelson and Lude departed the meeting at 3:45 p.m.

(3) Mr. Witte summarized the discussion and suggested that for the time being, the Executive Committee set aside the Football Rules Committee's contention that the former's oversight authority was not intended to extend to rules-making committees with no championships administration responsibilities; assume that it indeed did have that authority, and base its decisions on factual data relative to questions of cost, safety or image.

(a) It was voted that the NCAA Football Rules be amended to specify that effective with the 1991 season, the width of goal-post uprights be reduced from 23 feet, 4 inches to 18 feet, 6 inches.

(b) It was voted that the NCAA Football Rules be amended to specify that effective with the 1992 season, a visible 25-second clock is required for all contests.

(c) It was voted that inasmuch as the administration and assignment of officiating crews traditionally has been the purview of conferences, the issue of prohibiting split crews be referred to member conferences for consideration.

25. NCAA Airplane. It was voted that ownership of the NCAA airplane and its assets be transferred to the NCAA Foundation, effective September 1, 1990.

26. State or National Legislation. Mr. Schultz summarized bills pending in state legislatures or Congress that would impact intercollegiate athletics if adopted. He asked that the Executive Committee members keep him apprised of similar legislation that comes to their attention in their respective areas.

27. Future Meeting Dates and Sites. The Executive Committee reviewed the following meeting dates and sites:

a. August 13-14, 1990, The Doubletree Hotel, Monterey, California. [Championships committees, August 12-13.]

[Note: The Executive Committee agreed that inasmuch as the NCAA Council would meet in Monterey August 1-3 and some individuals would be involved in both meetings, the Association would pay per diem and lodging costs for those who wished to remain in Monterey in the interim.]

b. December 3, 1990, The Ritz-Carlton, Kansas City, Missouri. [Championships committees, December 2.]

[Note: The Executive Committee reaffirmed its desire to meet at The Ritz-Carlton rather than the NCAA national office building. It was agreed that a tour of the building would be arranged for those who were interested.]

c. It was voted that the August 12-13, 1991, meeting be conducted in Newport Beach, California, rather than Sun Valley, Idaho.

d. December 2, 1991, The Ritz-Carlton, Kansas City, Missouri. [Championships committees, December 1.]

28. Adjournment. The meeting adjourned at 4:55 p.m.

First Frank Deford Award presented at Williams

Williams College senior Jeff Friedman recently received the first Frank Deford Award, which was conceived by Williams sports information director Dick Quinn to honor annually the school's top student assistant SID.

Quinn, it seems, recalled that Frank Deford, editor-in-chief of The National daily sports newspaper, once wrote a piece for Sports Illustrated bemoaning the fact that teams wearing purple don't win very often. Purple, Williams' official color, also is Deford's favorite.

Deford visited Williams to present the first award, but not for the reason you might think.

"I am here because of Jennah Quinn," Deford said. "I had a child die of cystic fibrosis, and Dick Quinn has a daughter with cystic fibrosis. Those of us in cystic fibrosis have to hang together." Deford is national chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

From the May 25, 1990, issue of Big East Briefs comes the following tale of recruiting:

Brian Kelly's basketball future appeared bleak a few weeks ago. The spring signing period was beginning, and Kelly—a relatively unknown junior college player in Cincinnati—had yet to receive a scholarship offer from a Division I school. That's when he decided to take control of his own destiny.

Kelly, an all-state juco forward at Cincinnati Technical College, wrote letters to several schools—including Georgetown University, St. Louis University, Wake Forest University and The Citadel. Georgetown officials called John Hurley, Kelly's coach, and requested game videos to review. After seeing the youngster in action, Hoya coach John Thompson invited Kelly to make an official visit.

Kelly flew to Washington April 26 and signed with Georgetown two days later.

"It's beyond my wildest dreams," Kelly said later. "It's just incredible that I'm going to play there. I've been a big Hoya fan ever since Patrick Ewing was there. This is the biggest thing that's ever happened to me."

North Carolina State University student-athlete David Honea recently collected $10,000 in prize money for appearing in the finals of a special collegiate competition on the TV game show Jeopardy. Honea, who has a cumulative 4.000 grade-point average in electrical engineering (4.000 scale), is on a full academic scholarship at North Carolina State so winning the cash did not affect his eligibility.

"This has been something I've wanted to do for a long time," Honea said. "What I enjoyed most was watching the other contestants and then seeing my friends watching me, knowing what happened (the shows were taped for later broadcast) and not being able to tell them."

According to a survey conducted by Ty Buckner, sports information director at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, Ohio Wesleyan University posted the best winning percentage among all NCAA men's soccer teams in the 1980s, edging another Division III member, Salem State College; Indiana University, Bloomington, and Buckner's school.

The Battling Bishops were 171-33-15 for the decade (.8151). Salem State was 150-26-22 (.8131), and Indiana recorded the most victories with an overall 1980s record of 182-25-18 (.8128). North Carolina-Greensboro finished the decade 174-40-9 (.8004).

Individual totals also were tabulated, and North Carolina-Greensboro's Jason Haupt topped the the total-points (66) and goals (29) lists, while Jason Treschel of Gannon University led in assists (18).

Buckner's survey results are available by calling him at work, 919/334-5615.

Pro Am Sports System (PASS), a regional cable outlet serving Michigan and northwest Ohio, recently received two local Emmys from the Detroit/Michigan chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for its Central Collegiate Hockey Association coverage.

PASS producer Doug Yalacki and director Frank Albin received the awards in the categories of "Sports Play-by-Play" and "Multiple Camera Field Directing," respectively.

Calvin College recently named cowinners for both its outstanding male and outstanding female senior student-athletes. Honored with the 1990 Bere Memorial Athletic Award were John Lumkes and Jim Timmer. Named cowinners of the 1990 Kay Tiemersma Athletic Award were Amber Blankenspoor and Stephanie Rhind. Interestingly, this is the first time cowinners have been named for either award.

Awards are piling up for William J. Brooks, retiring athletics director at the University of North Carolina, Wilmington. First, he received a citation from the newly formed North Carolina Baseball Coaches Association for his contributions to the game.

Then, he was named to lead a Colonial Athletic Association delegation of men's basketball players on a trip to Yugoslavia this month. And when athletics directors of CAA members met recently at the league's baseball championship, they voted to name the CAA baseball MVP award in Brooks' honor.

Finally, Brooks recently was inducted into the National Junior College Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

Ted Kearly, athletics director at Michigan Technological University for 17 years, recently was presented the Tom Donahue Award by the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. The award, which is named in memory of former GLIAC Commissioner Tom Donahue, is the highest award the league bestows on any individual.

Carroll College seniors Tim Schmidt and Kevin Sippy have been named cowinners of the school's Buschkopf Award, given annually to the athlete who best combines athletics and academic excellence. Carroll's Kilgour Award, given annually to the outstanding female student-athlete, went to Susan Kohls, another senior.

Basketball hall-of-famer Jack Gardner, who coached at Kansas State University and the University of Utah, recently received the 50th Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association Award. The award is presented to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to basketball over the years; who has shown evidence of devotion and idealism to basketball, and who has demonstrated influence and power in the promotion of basketball in a positive manner.

Trivia Time: What was Jack Gardner's overall record in 28 seasons of college coaching? Answer later.

According to a release from Home Sports Entertainment, the cable company will be reaching 2.2 million cable homes by the end of May, with a reach of 2.5 million homes projected by the end of the year.

The U.S. Tennis Association has published the USTA College Tennis Guide 1990-91, which includes information on more than 1,300 college tennis programs around the country. The book is available for $6.95 to USTA members and $7.50 to nonmembers from USTA Publications, 707 Alexander Road, Princeton, New Jersey 08540

Captains of Clark University (Massachusetts) varsity sports teams recently raised $1,500 for the Worcester, Massachusetts, Sports Alive program, which is involved in fundraising for city-sponsored sports programs.

Saginaw Valley State University will hold a sports-medicine workshop June 24-27. Instruction will be provided in emergency skills, initial injury evaluation, and basic taping and wrapping techniques.

Advance registration is required, and may be made by calling 517/791-7318 or 791-7306.

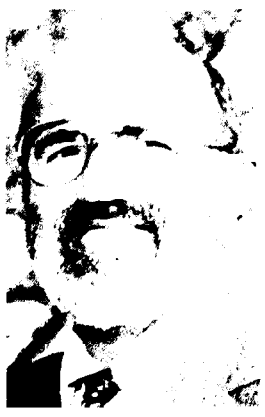
DePalmer named coach of the year

Mike DePalmer, who coached the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, men's tennis team to a 34-0 record before the Volunteers lost in the NCAA Division I team finals to Stanford University, has been named coach of the year by his peers.

DePalmer was named the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association's national coach of the year May 23 during a banquet in Indian Wells, California, site of the Division I championships.

"The team championship was the No. 1 priority, but this is a pretty good secondary thing," DePalmer said. "It's something I'll always remember."

The Vols set a collegiate record for season victories before falling to Stanford, 5-2, May 22. It was the third straight NCAA team championship for the Cardinal.



Mike DePalmer

In 10 seasons at Tennessee, DePalmer's teams have compiled a 221-74 record. This year's team started the season ranked 17th, but gradually moved up in the standings and took the No. 1 ranking into the championships.

Vol player Brice Karsh said the players expected DePalmer to get the award. "Once we were 86-0 or whatever our record was, it was in the bag. He deserves it. He's a great coach."

DePalmer told the Associated Press he wasn't so sure.

"You just never know. They may want to give it to the coach who wins the national championship," he said. "I guess they felt sorry for me. They figured I was at the end of the coaching line and that this was the closest Tennessee would ever get. But we're going to be back. I know we will."

During the recent Southland Conference outdoor track and field championships, Charles Austin of Southwest Texas State University joined an elite group of American high jumpers when he cleared 7-8½. In clearing the bar on his third attempt at the height, the senior from Van Vleck, Texas, registered the second best jump ever by a collegian and third best by an American athlete. He also won the Southland high-jump title.

team shall end its 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years with the playing of its last regularly scheduled, in-season contest and shall not be eligible to participate in any postseason competition following those seasons. In addition, the women's tennis team may not participate in a foreign tour in the summers of 1990 and 1991; further, the women's tennis team may not play any of its regular-season contests outside the continental United States during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years. Moreover, the women's tennis team may not take advantage of any exceptions to the limitation in the number of tennis contests that are provided in Bylaws 17.17.4.2.-(h) during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years. [NOTE: This penalty is suspended for the 1991-92 academic year.]

C. The institution shall be prohibited from awarding any new athletically related financial aid awards in women's tennis from May 30, 1990, to August 1, 1992. [NOTE: All financial aid to current team members or commitments to prospects made prior to May 30, 1990, may be honored, but no financial aid to new student-athletes or increased aid to current team members may be awarded prior to August 1, 1992.]

D. The institution shall be prohibited from providing any expense-paid visits to the institution for prospective student-athletes in the sport of women's tennis during the period August 1, 1990, to July 31, 1991. [NOTE: This penalty is immediately and completely suspended.]

E. The institution shall be prohibited from all off-campus recruiting activities in the sport of women's tennis for the period August 1, 1990, to July 31, 1991. [NOTE: This penalty is immediately and completely suspended.]

F. The university would have been required to show cause why it should not have been subject to additional penalties had the former head women's tennis coach involved in these violations been presently on the staff.

G. The institution shall be required to show cause why it should not be subject to additional penalties if it does not disassociate (in accordance with Bylaw 19.4.2.6) the former head women's tennis coach who was involved in numerous violations found in this case.

H. Due to his involvement in the violations set forth in this report, the former head women's tennis coach will be informed in writing by the NCAA that in the event he seeks employment as an athletics department staff member at an NCAA member institution during a five-year period (May 30, 1990, to May 30, 1995), he and the involved institution shall be required to appear before the Committee on Infractions in order for the committee to consider whether that member institution should be subject to the show-cause procedures of Bylaw 19.4.2.1-(l), which could limit the former coach's athletically related duties at the new institution for a designated period.

I. The committee adopts the actions of the institution in disassociating (in accordance with Bylaw 19.4.2.6) a representative of its athletics interests who was involved in violations found in this case [reference: Part II-G of this report].

J. The institution shall be required to recertify its current athletics policies and practices to ensure their conformity with all requirements of NCAA legislation.

[Note: Should Florida A&M University appeal either the findings of violations or proposed penalties in this case to the NCAA Council subcommittee of Division I members, the Committee on Infractions will submit an expanded infractions report to the members of the Council who will consider the appeal. This expanded report will include additional information in accordance with Bylaw 32.8.5. A copy of the committee's report would be provided to the institution prior to the institution's appearance before the Council subcommittee and, as required by Bylaw 32.8.6, would be released to the public.

Also, the Committee on Infractions wishes to advise the institution that when the penalties in this case become effective, the institution should take every precaution to ensure that their terms are observed; further, the committee intends to monitor the penalties during their effective periods, and any action contrary to the terms of any of the penalties shall be considered grounds for extending the institution's probationary period, as well as to consider imposing more severe sanctions in this case, and finally, should any actions by NCAA Conventions directly or indirectly modify any provision of these penalties or the effect of the penalties, the committee reserves the right to review and reconsider the penalties.]

NCAA COMMITTEE ON INFRACTIONS

Liberty Bowl selects ESPN, plans to sign four-year pact

The Liberty Bowl has picked ESPN over CBS to televise its postseason game and will sign a four-year contract with the cable network, Executive Director Bud Dudley said May 29.

Dudley also said the Liberty Bowl will announce soon a corporate sponsorship that will allow the bowl to pay each team $1 million.

He said the offers by ESPN and CBS were about even, but the ESPN offer was chosen because it was in the bowl's "best interests."

Dudley said he likes ESPN because it's an all-sports network with more promotion possibilities than CBS, the Associated Press reported.

"CBS gives us 94 percent of national coverage and ESPN gives us 62 percent of coverage," Dudley said. "But ESPN does more to promote your game. And it's been easier to negotiate dates with ESPN."

Tim Treadwell, chair of the Liberty Bowl's team-selection committee, said the contract will be worth less than the $1 million paid annually by Raycom Sports as part of a five-year contract with the bowl that expired with the 1989 game. He said the difference in the money will be made up through the sponsorship arrangement.

The pact and corporate-sponsor arrangement will be announced soon, Dudley said.

Loren Matthews, ESPN vice-president of programming, said the 1990 game probably will be played Thursday, December 27. He said dates for the other three games will be set between December 27 and January 2.

Dudley said the larger financial guarantees for teams and national exposure of ESPN are expected to help lure more attractive game matchups.

The sponsor arrangement, which will be the first in the bowl's 31-year history, has not been completed, Dudley said. He said he has been talking with the Department of Tourist Development in Tennessee about an arrangement through which it would help sell sponsorships to companies around the state.

Liberty Bowl and ESPN officials declined to disclose the financial terms of the contract.

Dudley, who has in the past opposed corporate sponsors, said he changed his mind in order to guarantee the $1 million payoff.
